INSPECTOR WILSON SHOT

London, August 17.—District Inspector Wilson was shot dead in the street at Templemore County Tipperary, yesterday.

TIPPERARY MASSACRE

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Belfast, August 18.—A massacre is reported from Templemore, in County Tipperary, as the result of the assassination of a district inspector.

When news of the assassination was received, the police and military turned out with bombs and guns and cleaned the streets in vengeance.

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 16.—In the House of Commons, replying to Captain Wedgewood Benn, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, stated that the Lord Mayor of Cork, who was recently arrested while presiding at a Sinn Fein Court in the City Hall is being courtmartialled today under the Defense of the Realm Act.

One of the charges against him was that of being in possession of the secret police cipher code.

The Chief Secretary added that he was not aware that the Lord Mayor was hunger-striking.

LABOR DICTATION

Mr. Pemberton Billing drew attention to the resolution (threatening a general strike in the event of military measures against Russia) passed at the Labor conference last week, which he described as equivalent to creating what was tantamount to a Labor dictatorship under the name of "Council of Action."

He asked if the time had not come to terminate the organisation of industrial disturbance for the purpose of achieving political ends.

BLUFF, SAYS PREMIER

Mr. Lloyd George said that the government's policy appeared in no way to differ from that of the Labor conference. This swing of the sledge hammer at an open door was only intended for display. Any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of Great Britain and would be resisted by all the forces at the government's disposal.

BAR IRISH LEADER

London, August 17.—Prior to its adjournment, the House of Lords considered the action of Mr. Carlisle, the Irish Privy Councillor, who, from the place allotted to Privy Councillor, interrupted the debate on the second reading of the Restoration of Order in Ireland Bill on August 9.

Lord Curzon read correspondence between himself and Mr. Carlisle indicating that the latter's action was deliberate.

The House passed a resolution debarring Mr. Carlisle from the privilege of being admitted to the steps of the Throne.

NO TRACE FOUND OF GOLD STOLEN FROM LINER NILE

Big Sum Taken From Chinese On Vessel Retained In Hands Of Parzer

Further investigation by ship's officers and members of the Shanghai Police through the day yesterday brought to light no trace of the 40 pounds of gold coin stolen from the bullion room of the China Mail liner Nile while the vessel was steaming toward Shanghai from Nagasaki. Hope is held that the cash, amounting to $10,000, is still concealed aboard the boat and that it may be discovered when the remainder of the cargo is unloaded at Hongkong. The Nile sailed for Hongkong direct at dawn today.

MUCH GOLD FOUND

It was learned yesterday that in the course of the search of the effects of the Chinese of the Nile's crew and the Chinese passengers on the vessel a total of $86,000 in gold coin was brought to light. In addition to other money, but it could not be shown that any portion of this gold had been a part of the loot from the bullion room of the ship. Most of the Chinese passengers on the ship were workers on their way home from America and it is not uncommon for such travelers to be

KOREANS FORM MURDER CORPS IS JAPANESE POLICE CHARGE

Radicals To Be Cleared From Peninsula, Says Official Note

MANY ARMED ATTACKS

Activities Of Revolutionaries Described As Like Bolshevism

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 17.—The Government of Korea today publishes a long statement on the subject of "the clearing from the Peninsula of native radicals."

The Government declares that between March 15 and July 6 there were twenty-one armed attacks on provincial offices in which seven persons were killed and ten seriously wounded, and five buildings were burned. Public money, amounting to 2,985 yen was stolen. The killed and wounded were mostly police officers.

The statement continues: "The Provisional Independent of Korea, organised by the Radicals, has adopted Bolshevik measures and instituted a 'murder corps,' composed of young people with its headquarters outside the frontier. They have attempted to carry out wholesale murder, incendiarism and robberies and to terrorise the population.

"The Japanese police force has experienced the greatest difficulty in fighting this conscious campaign of violence but has nevertheless, succeeded in finally driving out the Radicals."

It is intended to break up the ship up into souvenirs.

Sale Of U.S. Ships Is Announcement

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, August 16.—Admiral Benson, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, announced today that preparations were being made for the sale of government-owned steel merchant ships. The sale was to begin immediately.

An extensive advertising plan had been arranged and the actual disposal of the vessels was to start as soon as the necessary details had been completed.

An active campaign to sell government-owned wooden ships was also being launched, Admiral Benson stated.

Japs Seize Rare Instruments Being Returned To China

Japan is holding the Chinese astronomical instruments being returned to China by Germany in accordance with the Versailles Treaty of Peace, according to the Chinese press. The instruments, which were seized and taken to Berlin by the Teutons during the Boxer Rebellion, were being brought to Japan by Dr. Solf, the new German Minister to to Tokio, for trans-shipment to Shanghai.

The Tokio Government, however, has held the instruments pending settlement of the Shantung question, contending that China had not yet fulfilled her obligations towards the Versailles Treaty and could therefore receive no right conferred on her by the same pact.

Tokio declares that the instruments will be returned to China if the latter consents to direct negotiation over the Shantung problem.

PARK UNION BANK PLANS EXPANSION

T. F. Aspden Of New York Who Is Vice President Is Visiting City

Considerable expansion in the Far East and particularly in China is contemplated by the Park-Union Foreign Banking Corporation, according to Mr. T. F. Aspden, New York financier and vice-president of the institution who is in Shanghai on his first visit to the Orient. Mr. Aspden is an officer of the National Park Bank of New York, one of the strongest financial concerns in America. He is accompanied by Mr. A. E. Sleap, an inspector of the Park Union Bank.

NEW ENTERPRISE

The Park Union Foreign Banking Corporation was launched as an American concern by the National Park Bank of New York and the Union Bank of Canada under provisions of the American Federal Reserve Act of Congress that enable national banks for organize foreign banking institutions.

The first branch established in the Far East was at Yokohama and following this the Shanghai branch was opened last fall. The third branch was opened shortly afterwards at Tokio.

GOING TO JAPAN

Mr. Aspden said yesterday that he intends to leave shortly for a visit to the two branch banks in Japan and will return in the course of the next several weeks to make a tour of centers in China with Mr. F. V. Reilly, Manager of the Park Union branch at Shanghai. They will visit Peking, Tientsin, Hankow and other centers and plan also to go to Hongkong and to Manila. Mr. Aspden said yesterday it is intended to open branches of the bank in Peking, Tientsin and Hongkong and later in other Far Eastern centers.

Save Money, Is Word Of New Government To China Officials

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 18.—A mandate has been issued appointing Pan Fu and Wang Shih-yuan Vice-Ministers of Finance.

A mandate will be issued this evening advocating a general retrenchment and cutting down of all unnecessary official expenditures and salaries.

The following appointments are announced today: Chang Hu to be director of the currency bureau and Pan Fu to be director of the salt administration.

SEEKS BIG U. S. LOAN

(Reuter's Service)

New York, August 16.—M. Parmentier, a representative of the French Minister of Finance, has arrived here to negotiate a loan of $147,000,000 with American bankers, including J. P. Morgan and Company.

Japan May Employ Anfu Outlaws To Form Outer Mongolian Government

An alarming disclosure of how Japan proposes to prevent the union of China by utilising the outlawed Anfu leaders for the establishment of an independent state in Outer Mongolia has been made through the discovery of certain code telegrams that passed between the present Japanese Minister to Peking, Obata, and the Tokio Foreign Office under date of July 18 and July 19.

The messages showed that the Japanese envoy requested the Tokio administration to furnish Little Hsu and the eight other Anfuite criminals, now granted sanctuary in the Japanese Legation, with 3,000,000 yen to start an independent state in Outer Mongolia and to arm their troops with Japanese weapons in order to lay the foundation for further aggression against China proper.

JAPANESE AGENTS

Japan's other plans included the reinstatement of General Horvath as Director of the Chinese Eastern Railway. This will be accomplished through the co-operation of the two Japanese agents in Peking, Tsao Ju-lin and Lu Chung-yu.

The scheme of the Foreign Office in Tokio, according to the disclosure, to undermine Chang Tso-lin will consist of both a threatening and an inviting policy. The Japanese troops being withdrawn from Siberia will be stationed along the Chinese Eastern Railway as well as in Changchun and Harbin to form a military cordon round the sphere of influence of the Mukden chief.

WILL OFFER LOANS

On the other hand, through the assistance of the Japanese advisors to Chang Tso-lin, Japan will offer loans and other assistance to win his favor and ask him not to oppose her scheme in Outer Mongolia. In this way, Japan hopes to revive the brigand instinct of the Fengtien Tuchun and destroy him at his own game.

The return and resignation of Sun Hsiao-lien, the director of the Chinese Eastern Railway, is significant in that his resignation was made as a result of Russian threats instigated by Japanese authorities.

Aerial Service To Furnish Russians With News Of Enemy's Army Moves

President Ebert And New Commander

(Reuter's Service)

PARIS, August 16.—The French Foreign Office has been advised by the French Mission at Warsaw that Germany has organised an aerial service to furnish the Bolshevik staff with military information concerning Polish strategic movements. The Mission further reports that the Russians are receiving munitions and food across the East Prussian frontier

(U. S. Navy Wireless)

Paris, August 18.—William Adamson, labor member of the British Parliament, and Harry Gosling, leader of the English transport workers, have been requested to leave France. They were notified that if they failed to do so they would be expelled.

Both arrived here today as representatives of the British Council in Action of the Triple Alliance of Labor. Upon their arrival they went into conference with French socialist leaders.

RUSSIANS ADVANCE

Berlin, August 16.—According to newspaper reports, the Russian advance in the Polish corridor continues. Numerous towns have been entered, including the important fortress of Thorn where strong resistance had been expected.

The German Government has protested to the Supreme Council against the boundary demarcation of the West Prussian plebiscite area. It declares that it cannot recognise the Supreme Council's decision which, it asserts, is incompatible with the provisions of the Peace Treaty and in contradiction with the right of self-determination.

NO QUARTER IS GIV

Stockholm, August 16.—The Bolshevik organ Investia publishes an order issued by the Soviet authorities at Kieff stating that no forbearance must be shown towards the population of Poland and that the population of entire districts may be almost entirely annihilated, rich farmers exterminated, all agricultural produce seized, and anybody found possessing a single cartridge executed.

London, August 16.—Lord Curzon announced in the House of Lords today that the Polish and Russian armistice and peace delegates had met at Minsk. Negotiations were, doubtless, proceeding.

MOSCOW PLOT CHARGED

Vladivostok, August 17.—The Vladivostok press, with the exception of the Bolshevik organ, maintains that the Verdhne-Udinsk Government agreement with the Vladivostok delegates and the local Communists' endorsement of that agreement was a prearranged plan by the Moscow Government.

The results of this agreement, it is stated, are likely to be disastrous to Far Eastern Siberia.

Rumors are gaining ground, as a result of the news of General Semenoff's evacuation of the Zabaikal, that he will make a stand at the Priamur district and that the Bolsheviks will then occupy the Zabaikal and Amur Provinces.

AMERICA'S STAND

London, August 17.—The Daily Express understands that important unofficial negotiations are proceeding in London between high British and American officials regarding various pending questions.

The journal states that the Americans have given assurances that America does not desire to play a role of isolation while it is believed that the Allies will accept the American Senate's reservations on the Treaty of Versailles.

The question of the Mesopotamia oilfields remains unsettled, adds the Daily Express, but the outlook is favorable.

WRANGEL INVOLVED

London, August 17.—M. Kameneff has sent a letter to Mr. Lloyd George asking for information regarding Great Britain's attitude towards General Wrangel, and declaring that, owing to the decision of the French Government to recognise General Wrangel's Government, the Wrangel question is now bound up with that of general peace.

M. Kameneff, therefore, asks whether Great Britain, "in view of her earlier steps on behalf of General Wrangel, will take new steps to facilitate a resumption of friendly relations with the Soviet and remove all obstacles leading thereto."

World Peace Imperiled By Hasty Act Of Labor, Opinion Of Lloyd George

Premier Asserts That Publication Of Notes Will Show Great Britain Warned Poles Against Attack On Bolshevists

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 18.—Mr. Bonar Law, in moving the adjournment of the House of Commons until October 19, with the proviso that the house might be convoked earlier, if desirable, said that nothing had occurred since the adjournment last Thursday except what had appeared in the newspapers.

The government's policy with regard to the Polish-Russian question had been laid down in the clearest possible manner by the prime minister last week. There was not the slightest foundation for the suggestion that that policy had been altered by any expression of public opinion or the action of a body calling itself the "Council of Action."

Mr. Bonar Law proceeded to show that there had not been the slightest deviation from the beginning in the British attitude in the Polish-Russian war. He retracted the progress of recent events in connection with the presentation of the Russian terms, as already published. He mentioned that the government's message to the British representative in Warsaw, for conveyance to the Poles, that we would not interfere in the Russian terms were genuine and did not go further, was simultaneously communicated to the Allies. The Italian Government telegraphed entire approval of our step, added Mr. Bonar Law.

PROTECT INDEPENDENCE

The other part of our policy, Mr. Bonar Law proceeded, would only remain if the Russians sought to impose unexpected conditions, interfering with Polish independence. M. Kameneff yesterday sent the prime minister a letter stating that the terms submitted to us would not be altered. In the event of the contingency mentioned arising, which he did not anticipate, the Government would not take action until the House of Commons had been convened and its approval obtained.

Mr. Bonar Law, in conclusion, declared that the world's one need today was peace. It was not our business to determine the form of government of any country except our own. It was solely with the object of having a peace conference in London that the prime minister had tendered the Poles advice.

He emphasised that the government would not land Great Britain in any warlike operation except on grounds so plain and obvious that the whole country would be behind it.

Mr. Asquith, who followed Mr. Bonar Law, said he considered that the government had taken the proper course in their communication to Poland. It would be monstrous for the government to undertake further warlike operations without Parliament's approval.

PEACE WITH HONOR

The peace of the world, declared Mr. Asquith, was now a thing worth purchasing, at almost any price short of dishonor. Moreover, peace ought not to be beyond the resources of the combined statesmanship of Europe, with the help of the League of Nations.

Mr. J. R. Clynes, Labor, said he did not agree with the statement that there had not been any variation in the peaceful purpose of the government throughout the past week. He declared that they would have been less suspicious, if they had known what was going on at the recent conferences. He disputed the contention that the "Council of Action" was challenging the constitution, because the League of Nations was part of their constitution and it had not been used in this connection. Mr. Clynes emphasised that if the government refused at such a time to use a part of the constitution which had been made for peace, then the workmen must not forfeit the right to strike, if war could thus be prevented.

DEPLORES DIRECT ACTION

Lord Robert Cecil dissociated himself from the view that the Government negotiations had been successfully conducted, but he said that the threat of direct action was a threat of insurrection.

Last Tuesday there was no danger of Great Britain being dragged into a sudden war, nevertheless labor had uttered an ill-advised threat, which would have the most unfortunate results in the future.

Mr. Lloyd George spoke next. He deprecated, he said, using the League of Nations as a weapon to attack the government. He pointed out that the league's existence was very largely due to British support and the government stood by the league. The

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, August 17.—Those members of the crew of the Patrokal, the steamer which was captured on Sunday night by a band of armed men, who were unwilling to continue the voyage, were landed on the Island of Askold.

They have now returned to Vladivostok on board the steamer Chefoo.

They state that the Patrokal was seized by a band of eight officers, accompanied by some women, and that the vessel is now steaming towards Japan.

The officers did not commit any act of violence but merely commanded the officers to navigate the vessel according to their instructions.

BRITISH BODY ASSAILS NIPPON FOR SHAW CASE

Local Chamber Files Strong Protest Against Jap High-handed Act

Vehemently protesting against the Japanese high handed action in the arrest and treatment of Mr. G. L. Shaw, the British Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai yesterday addressed a letter to Mr. C. F. Garstin, the British Acting Consul-General at Shanghai.

The message was as follows:

British Chamber of Commerce.
Shanghai, August 18, 1920.—

Sir,—The Committee of this Chamber desire to enter the strongest possible protest against the arrest of and treatment accorded to Mr. G. L. Shaw, one of its members and the agent in Antung of important British firms who are also members. We have hitherto refrained from addressing you on this subject in anticipation of an explanation by the Japanese authorities which might show at least arguable grounds for their procedure. The explanation published at Seoul on August 10 and at Tokio on August 13 are, however, wholly inadequate and unsatisfactory, and my Committee feel that they would be individually and collectively disloyal both to Mr. Shaw and to British interests throughout the Far East if they failed to protest now.

QUERIES TO JAPAN

The so-called explanations issued by the Japanese authorities make no attempt whatever to meet the following questions:

1. If they have proof, as alleged, that Mr. Shaw has been assisting Koreans in anti-Japanese plots, why did they not lodge a formal protest with H. M. Representatives?
2. Why did they allow him to enter Korea without a passport and then arrest him on his way back to Antung?
3. Why is he kept a prisoner?

Whatever the truth of Mr. Shaw's alleged complicity in Korean plots may be, the action of the Japanese

INDEPENDENCE FOR FILIPINOS 25 YEARS AWAY

—RANDALL

American Dry Leader Sees Little Chance For Early Change

(Reuter's Service)

Honolulu, August 17.—The Great Northern has arrived here on her homeward voyage to San Francisco.

Congressman Charles H. Randall, of Los Angeles, in the course of a statement giving his impressions of the visit to Manila and Shanghai, said that the Philippines would not be ripe for independence for another quarter of a century.

In this opinion, he said, practically every member of the congressional party concurred.

FILIPINOS SATISFIED

Moreover, the better educated Filipinos, not in politics, were also unanimously opposed to independence.

With many, including himself, said Mr. Randall, seeing actual conditions existing in the Philippines had produced a great reversal of opinion on this subject. They felt that to cast the islands and their inhabitants adrift now would entail a crisis of the first magnitude.

Development of the Philippines was being stunted by lack of capital, owing to the uncertainty regarding the future status of the government.

SHADOW OF JAPAN

Congressman Randall further stated that "the shadow of Japanese aggression overlay almost the entire Orient."

Some thoughtful men in the Philippines predicted Japanese domination both of China and of the Philippines, if the United States released the latter.

Mr. Randall added that he had cabled to Attorney General Palmer urging the application of prohibition to the Philippines.

in possession of considerable sums, the savings of years, and the Chinese returning to their home country often convert their savings into gold before leaving America.

The belief is now held that the robbery of the Nile's strong room was the outcome of a cunningly devised plot and it is thought that those who perpetrated it were interrupted while the robbery was being carried out and were able to take with them only the single box of gold coin. Treasure valued at approximately $2,000,000 was stored in the ship's bullion room and it is thought that a much larger sum would have been taken if the robbers had not been interrupted.

MONEY IS HELD

The gold coin found in possession of the Chinese aboard the ship has been taken over by the purser and will be held until the vessel gets to Hongkong where a searching investigation is to be conducted.

Local Collegians To Entertain 250 Parting Students

Reception To Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon At Columbia Country Club

Two hundred and fifty Chinese students who are sailing on various vessels for America to attend educational institutions will be guests at a reception to be given at the Columbia Country Club, 50 Route Doumer tomorrow afternoon at 4 to 7 o'clock.

The hosts are the American University Club, the Western Returned Students Club, the Kiangsu Educational Association, the World Students' Federation and the American College Women's Club.

It has been decided to try a new scheme of entertainment at this reception by making it a real university get-together. That is, there will be a minimum amount of speaking and music and the remainder of the afternoon will be spent in getting acquainted with the 250 students and give them some personal glimpses of the institutions to which they are going.

These students will be divided into groups as far as is possible by schools such as Columbia, Yale, Illinois and California, and it is hoped that the members of the University Club who are from these schools will meet these men and give them some "fatherly" advice as to the schools and answer any questions they may care to ask about the institution.

authorities has been high-handed in the extreme. My Committee cannot but recall the many similar examples of overbearing and unjust conduct on the part of Japanese officials towards British subjects in South Manchuria, and in view of them cannot but feel that unless this case is made the subject of the strongest possible representations and receive a full, complete and fair inquiry no British subject doing business in that part of China will be safe from molestation. Indeed, if a British subject resident there can with impunity thus be entrapped, arrested and held a prisoner on charges of this nature, what is there to prevent British residents in other parts of China, alleged to be engaged in anti-Japanese activities, being similarly treated after arrival in Japan?

NIPPONESE ARROGANT

Accumulating evidence in the possession of my Committee shows that the whole attitude of Japanese officials towards British subjects is obstructive and arrogant and the time has come when Associations of British merchants throughout the Far East must protest against it.

I have the honor to request that you will forward this protest to H. M. Charge d'Affaires in Peking.

I am sending a copy of it to the Press.

American Red Cross Work In Siberia Brought To End

Acting Commissioner Expresses Gratitude For Aid Sent North From Bodies In China

Marking the completion of the work of the American Red Cross in Siberia Mr. W. A. B. Nichols Chairman of the China Central Committee of the Red Cross, has received a letter from the organisation's acting commissioner at Vladivostok in which gratitude is expressed for assistance received from China.

The letter tells of the sailing of the ship that is to carry back to Petrograd a large number of Russian children that have been under the protection of the American Red Cross in Vladivostok on Russian Island and gives a general review of Red Cross activities. The letter is as follows:

THE LETTER

"With the sailing of the Steamer Yomei Maru a few days from now, carrying home the Petrograd children, the Siberian Commission, American Red Cross, will virtually close its activities. There will remain here a small unit to wind up details and to have a share in War Prisoner repatriation, under the direction of the new American Committee for the repatriation of War Prisoners. However, the Red Cross organisation as a whole is now virtually liquidated.

"A number of us will sail on the Yomei Maru. For those thus leaving Siberia, for the many who have already gone and for the comparatively small number remaining, I speak in warm appreciation of the splendid cooperation and assistance the Siberian Commission has had from your China Chapters and their Members, individually and collectively.

VOICES GRATITUDE

"In the early days of the Commission it was the Far Eastern Chapters which contributed the personnel, the relief supplies and to a large extent the financial backing. Through the two years of the Commission's existence, this backing and support have been always freely given and your co-operation ungrudgingly extended. I am sorry that it is impossible to write letters to every member of your Chapters, expressing this deep appreciation of their interest in our relief program in Siberia. However, I know, as does every Red Cross worker here, who has seen this colossal relief organisation from Vladivostok to the Ural Mountains, that your real appreciation comes from the thousands, yes the hundreds of thousands of needy men, women and children, who have been saved from disease, starvation and despair. I have just finished packing up for shipment to Washington some of our files of letters of thanks and clippings from Siberian newspapers concerning the work of the American Red Cross. This tangible evidence of appreciation when one realises what a small [illegible] and sheepish people whom we have helped can read or write, it is all the more impressive and heartening to think of the countless thousands who have felt the kind uplifting hand of the American Red Cross here.

"I hope you will find opportunity of expressing this appreciation to as many Members of your Chapters as possible.

"Again with heartiest thanks for your co-operation with the Siberian Commission."

league could not be invoked so far with regard to Poland, as action by the league depended upon the unanimity of its members.

It was useless to attempt to conceal the fact that the Allies differed with regard to the Russo-Polish situation. Consequently the league could not have done more to reach some measure of agreement than the supreme council had done and was doing. Furthermore, Russia emphatically refused to have any intervention by the League.

MEETINGS PUBLIC

Continuing, Mr. Lloyd George refuted Mr. Clynes' criticism as regards secrecy of the supreme council meetings. He declared that the meetings were given full publicity. He could not remember a single important decision which had not been published immediately.

Another criticism of Mr. Clynes was that the Supreme Council should comprise larger numbers representing each country. In this connection Mr. Lloyd George pointed out that the only way the league itself could transact business was by getting one or two leading men of each country to come together when a crisis arose and discuss it frankly with a view to reaching conclusions.

This was the only way of doing good, which could not be obtained by rhetorical performances of a kind of international parliament.

He suggested to Mr. Clynes that trade unions transacted business by small numbers, and he had yet to learn that the proceedings of those meetings were revealed to the public with the candor and openness which Mr. Clynes demanded of government transactions.

ATTACKS LABOR COUNCIL

Mr. Lloyd George said that the dangerous part of Mr. Clynes' speech was the defence of the "Council of Action." Mr. Clynes had claimed to be a democrat and a constitutionalist. He was not. Mr. Clynes argued that the constitution was an unwritten one. That was incorrect, and when a new body was established and substituted for parliament, it was a dangerous doctrine.

Labor had suddenly established a body of men who said:

"We will formulate part of the constitution for ourselves. We will not submit it to parliament, because elected representatives do not count. Therefore, we are going to declare by a resolution (carried after from two to three hours discussion) that henceforth the constitution shall include a Committee of Action representing one section of the community."

That, continued the prime minister, was one of the most formidable challenges ever given to democracy, and without hesitation every government must accept the challenge.

The labor party knew perfectly what was the policy of the government and their action when there was no issue involving peril to the community and when the government had taken responsibility, in full accord with public opinion, was one of the most unjustifiable actions ever undertaken by a responsible body in this country. It had been done to impress people with the idea that without this dire threat the country would have been plunged into war.

Every responsible labor member knew that the government had been striving strenuously and consistently for peace.

WARNED THE POLES

The prime minister hoped soon to be able to publish the government's despatches to Poland. They would show that Great Britain had deprecated the Polish invasion and solemnly warned the Poles that, if invasion were undertaken, they could not count upon the support of British opinion.

The government in this connection had used the same language as it was using today. It had not deviated a hair's breadth from that policy throughout, and the prime minister was of opinion that Poland today regretted not taking British advice.

Concluding, Mr. Lloyd George emphasised the need for preserving the unity of the nation as it had been preserved in face of a greater danger, but resolutions like that of the "Council of Action" on Friday last did not help the cause of peace. Such action roused deep fear and anxiety in the minds of millions as to what it all meant, and fear was the most prolific cause of war.

This fear was that the democratic institutions of the country were to be subverted by some tyrannical idea imposed by force of arms. That disturbed the balance of mind not only of statesmen but of the people behind them, and there was nothing more conducive to revolutionary wars than such a fear.

WORLD PEACE IMPERILED

"I ask them not to repeat that experiment," pursued the prime minister. "If they do, it will be difficult to preserve the atmosphere of calm judgment which is essential to the peace of the world."

With regard to the Irish problem, the prime minister reiterated that, subject to the following conditions, the government was prepared to discuss with any persons, claiming to represent Irish opinion, proposals advanced with a view to satisfying Irish opinion:

(1) The six counties representing North East Ulster must be accorded separate treatment;

(2) Under no conditions could the government assent to any proposal directly or indirectly involving the secession of any part of Ireland from the United Kingdom;

(3) The government could not agree to anything involving any detraction from the security of these islands or their safety in case of war.

Subject to these conditions the government was prepared to discuss any proposals put forward by the Sinn Feiners.

Mr. Bonar Law's motion was adopted without a division, and the House adjourned until October 19.

Wedding

BELL-BOLD

A charming little wedding was quietly solemnised before the Rev. C. J. F. Symons, M.A., at the Holy Trinity Cathedral on Tuesday afternoon, when Mr. Robert Dixon Bell, of the firm of Messrs. Harvie Cooke and Co., was married to Miss Gertrude Elizabeth Bold. The bride, who only arrived in Shanghai from England, on Saturday on the Empress of Asia, was given away by Mr. E. G. Barnes, and entering the aisle she looked particularly charming in a dress of ivory charmeuse, embroidered with small pearls and draped with tulle and sprigs of orange blossom. She wore a veil of ivory tulle with a wreath of orange blossom and carried a bouquet of white carnations, roses and tuberoses. She was attended by Miss B. Lobban, who wore a dainty dress of mauve silk and a black picture hat. Mr. William S. Lonborg fulfilled the duties of best man. At the Cathedral, Mr. R. B. Hurry officiated at the organ.

The bride's present to the bridegroom was a pearl and diamond tie pin, and the bridegroom's gift to the bride was a complete silver toilet set. The bridegroom's present to the bridesmaid was a silver jewel case.

After the wedding a reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Barnes, 130 Dixwell Road.

The honeymoon is being spent in Mokanshan.

U.S. COURT SUIT INVOLVES BIG SUM

Breach Of Contract Alleged In Action Involving Shanghai Firm

A suit and counter suit involving a considerable sum of money will be heard in the United States Court for China at the next term of court when claims made by Ring Mow Zu, a Formosan, against Wilkins Bros. & Company an American firm of Shanghai, and counter claims of this firm, will be presented. Breach of contract is alleged in both actions.

In his petition the Formosan plaintiff asserts that on December 26 he entered an agreement with the Shanghai firm for the purchase of an 80,000 spindle spinning mill and complete equipment, agreeing to make payment in two installments the first to be Taels 208,000 and the second Gold $208,000. He sets forth that he has made the first payment, but has been unable to obtain assurance that the goods purchased will be delivered, though he sent an agent to New York to achieve this end. He asks for the return of the money paid and for additional damage of Taels 300,000.

In its counter suit the Shanghai company contends that the machinery was not delivered because the Formosan purchaser had not established satisfactory credit and denies that misrepresentations have been made. Wilkins Bros. & Co. seek damages in the sum of $1,212,000 and $90,000 additional for breach of contract.

Incoming Steamers Carry Little Mail

Next Big Consignment Is Due To Arrive September 5 On Empress Boat

Only small consignments of mail are expected from America on three vessels due to arrive in the next few days, the Ecuador due in today, the Shinyo Maru due in Saturday, and the Fushim Maru, due in August 25. The Ecuador and the Shinyo Maru are from San Francisco by way of Honolulu and Japan ports and the Fushimi Maru comes from Seattle.

Postmaster E. H. Everett of the American Post Office said yesterday that the next sizable mail will not be received until September 5 when the Empress of Japan will arrive. This ship will bring 950 bags of mail for the American Post Office and probably heavy consignments for other post offices. The Ecuador and the Shinyo Maru left before the Empress of Russia sailed and the Fushimi Maru left the day afterwards.

The next mail outbound to Canada, the United States and Europe will go on the liner Monteagle which left Hongkong Tuesday and is due off Woosung Saturday at 6 o'clock in the morning. The incoming tender from this ship is expected to arrive at the Municipal Jetty at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and the outbound tender to the vessel is to leave the jetty at 9 o'clock in the morning.

The Shinyo Maru sails from Nagasaki today and will arrive at Woosung Saturday.

Wu Pei-fu Leaves Peking On His Way Home After Victory

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 18.—General Wu Pei-fu left Peking yesterday evening. General Tsao Kun proposes to leave tomorrow and General Chang Tso-lin on Saturday but the President desires the question of the military areas to be settled before their departure.

Chang Kuo-kan, director of port construction at Hankow, suggests the abolishing of his post and the placing of the work directly under the control of the government.

The President has referred the matter to the ministries of Finance and Commerce for consideration.

It is believed that Chang Kuo-kan is playing up to Chin Yung-peng, who is attempting temporarily to cut down all extraordinary expenditure.

Admiral Wang Chung-wen and Major Chen Fu have arrived at Nikolaievsk. It is declared that up to the present they have not discovered any proof of Chinese participation in the massacre.

CANADA'S LONDON EXHIBIT

Novel Fair Excites The Admiration Of Britons

The Canadian Industries Exhibition was recently opened at the Agricultural Hall, London, where all the wonders of Canadian workmanship, skill and artistry are gathered for Britons to admire. The exhibition, says the London Daily Mail, is a sort of a "clever ideas exhibition," and is the first of its kind in that country. If there is a woman who thinks she has the daintiest foot in England a prize of £10 awaits her at Stand No. 61, where a polite Canadian expert will try to prove to her that there are shoes and shoes, but that none fit quite so well as Canadian shoes. There are delicate confections at the entrance to the show that make the mouth water and carry one past the numerous stalls longing for a chance to sample some of the choice products of Prairieland.

The housewife seeking an inspiration to reduce the drudgery of the home will find many novels devices that give her Canadian sister "a cleaner home in less time." The farmer, the motorist, the mechanic and the homemaker will all find something unique and practical on the many stalls. There are machines that guarantee preserved greenstuffs for cattle through the Winter, ingenious tools for breakdowns on the road and drawing rooms that become bedrooms by the pressing of a button. Every effort has been made to make the exhibition as attractive and novel as possible.

ITALIAN STRIKE ENDS

Rome, August 16.—The strike of Italian port workers, which was due to disputes between the co-operative societies and the men, has been settled.

Threat Against Yen May Arouse Distrust Of New Officialdom

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 18.—The Chen Pao states, that owing to the attempt by the Tuchun of Shansi, General Yen Hsi-shan to aid Marshal Tuan Chi-jui by sending Shansi troops to Niangtzekuan, where the Chihli troops intercepted them, General Tsao Kun is recommending General Wan Cheng-ping to replace General Yen Hsi-shan.

There is no official confirmation of this report but, if the dismissal of General Yen Hsi-shan is carried out, it will arouse considerable Chinese and foreign distrust of the new government for General Yen has successfully eluded numerous attempts to embroil him in party intrigues while his administration for many years has been one example of honest and ceaseless regard for the welfare of the people to which the Chinese are able to point as a proof of what a worthy official can do in China.

Warns Swiss Not To Buy Airplanes Of Germany

Newspapers Say That Craft Belong To The Allies—Purchasers Face 100,000 Marks

Geneva, July 19.—The Swiss newspapers today warn Swiss firms against buying German airships or airplanes at low prices owing to the present exchange rates.

It is said by the newspapers that these aircraft are the property of the Allies, according to the treaty of Versailles, and that buyers and sellers are liable to a fine aggregating 100,000 marks, and also that all machines are liable to confiscation.

PRINCETON CAPTURES SIX OF TEN EVENTS IN FIELD MEET AGAINST ATHLETES AT OXFORD UNIVERSITY

American Invaders Take Down Honors In Contests Staged Before Crowds Of International Fame

London, July 8.—Princeton defeated Oxford in their dual track and field meet at the Queens Club here today. Princeton won six of the events, while Oxford was victorious in four. The spectators included the Duke of York, John W. Davis, the American Ambassador, and Earl Beatty and Lady Beatty. Princeton athletes finished first in the 100-yard dash, 120-yard hurdles, high jump, shot put, hammer throw and broad jump.

Wood, who was second in the hammer throw, is an Oxford novice. Nokes, Oxford's thrower, sprained his ankle while practicing, which left Oxford represented by only one man in the hammer throw and shot put.

R. E. Brown, of Princeton, won the 100-yard dash. B. G. D. Rudd, of Oxford, the South African runner, was second. R. D. Clark, of Princeton, was third and Wood of Oxford was fourth. Brown won the event by a yard and a half. The time was 10 seconds flat.

ERDMAN WINS HURDLE RACE

In the 120-yard hurdles C. R. Erdman, Jr., of Princeton, was first, G. W. Trowbridge, of Princeton, was second, and Jeppe of Oxford, third. Erdman finished a yard and a half ahead of Trowbridge, who was six yards ahead of Jeppe. The time was 15 2-5 seconds.

Rudd of Oxford won the quarter-mile run, with F. L. Murrey of Princeton second, and Kent-Hughes of Oxford third. Rudd won by twenty-five yards in 1 minute 59 4-5 seconds.

The mile run was won by Milligan of Oxford, with Montague of Oxford second, R. M. McCulloch of Princeton third and D. Swede of Princeton fourth. Millingan won by eight yards in 4 minutes 31 1-5 seconds.

MONTAGUE IS FIRST

The three-mile race was won by Montague of Oxfords. Swede of Princeton was second, Broadbent of Oxford third and McCulloch of Princeton fourth. Montague led throughout and won by eighty wards. There were 200 yards between the second and third men and sixty yards between the third and fourth. Montague's time was 15 minutes 16 seconds.

S. Harrison Thomson of Princeton won the high jump with a jump of 5 feet 9¾ inches. C. F Sweet of Princeton was second with 5 feet 9 inches and White of Oxford was third with 5 feet 8 inches.

The broad jump was won by D. B. Lourie, of Princeton, with 21 feet 6 inches. J. N. C. Ford, of Oxford, with 20 feet 8⅝ inches, was second. Thomson, of Princeton, was third with 20 feet 7½ inches, and L. O. Ingrams, of Oxford, was fourth with 19 feet 9¾ inches.

Theodore O. Speers of Princeton was first in the hammer throw with 137 feet 7¼ inches. C. F. Wood of Oxford, with 82 feet, was second.

In the weight put C. D. Halsey, Jr., of Princeton, was first with 41 feet 5½ inches and R. F. Cleveland, of Princeton, was second with 40 feet 10¾ inches.

The victory of the Princeton athletes against Oxford can be traced, if such a thing is possible, to the victory of R. E. Brown in the 100-yard dash. In every other respect the meet ran true to the predictions made by track experts of America and England, which was that Princeton would win the four field events and the 120-yard high hurdles and Oxford four of the track events. The only doubtful race, in the minds of both the American and English experts, was the 100-yard dash, which was the pivot on which the result of the meet turned. A victory here would assure Princeton a victory, while defeat would throw the meet into a deadlock.

The triumph of Brown, who is America's intercollegiate 100 and 220-yard titleholder, was gained at the expense of one of England's greatest runners, B. G. D. Rudd, the famous South African athlete. Whether or not Rudd could race in both the quarter and half mile and still have stamina enough to cope with Brown in the short dash was a serious question. The task that faced the South African was completed by the showing of Brown in the British championship last week at Stamford Bridge, where he failed to do the 100 in even time, a performance that he bettered yesterday in defeating Rudd by a yard and a half.

Erdman's victory for Princeton in the 120-yard hurdles was a slight deflection from the advance calculations. Trowbridge of Princeton won the event at Stamford Bridge and was expected to repeat against Oxford. In all other respects the meet ran true to form. Montague of Oxford, who won the three-mile race, was beaten by Gordon Nightingale in a similar race at the Penn relays.

"You Tell 'Em!"

America has won the first completed Olympic event at Antwerp—the trap-shooting competition. The Americans broke 547 out of a possible 600 clay targets. Belgium was second with 503. Sweden third with 500; Great Britain fourth with 488; and Canada fifth with 474.

You tell 'em, clay figure; I'm all shot to pieces.

Pretty race in the Pacific Coast Baseball League. Only ten games separate Salt Lake, the leader, from Sacramento, the tail ender. All of the Clubs are having a big year.

You tell 'em, percentage; figures never lie.

But liars do figure.

You tell 'em, door mat; they walk out on me.

And now they have Georges Carpentier appearing in a big motion picture entitled, "The Wonder Man" surrounded by "dancing nymphs, alluring bathing beauties, and similar appealing features." All right "let Georges do it."

You tell 'em, camera; they always "look pleasant" when you get going.

Wonder if the little Frenchman was wondering, while the "Wonder Man" was being made into a "wonderful production," whether or not he could make Mr. Dempsey wonder what had struck him when they meet—if they do—in that famous gladiatorial embroglio?

You tell 'em, boxing club; they'll fall for you.

Lord Dewar, who accompanied Sir Thomas from England for the yachting, was especially intrigued with "the sporting instinct of the American lady." The loyalty of American women to "sport contests," he said, "arouses my astonishment; it is wonderful."

You tell 'em, distillery; they'll swallow what you hand out.

E. B. ("Togo") Osborne, a sensational fifteen year old golfer of California, has annexed the state Championship for juniors, playing a stiff course in three under par. He will enter the senior events next year.

You tell 'em, golf ball; you've often got a good lie.

The Washington (D. C.) baseball team is evidently grooming another "Big Swede," Erickson to step into Walter Johnson s shoes when the latter shall have wearied of speeding them across the plate. According to present indications, this will occur in about the year, A. D. 1986.

Send in some "You tell 'ems."

Dempsey Can 'Get Goat' Of Georges Carpentier

Shortly after it was announced by cable from Paris that Carpentier had signed to box Dempsey, a seedy-looking individual walked into Dempsey's movie studio in the south and asked to see the champion.

"How do you do," said Dempsey; "what can I do for you?"

"Can you speak French?" asked the fellow.

"No," replied Dempsey.

"Well," said the fellow, "you ought to learn, and I've got the quickest system in the world. You start cussing Carpentier in his own language and you'll get his goat. For $1,000 I'll teach you in a week all the cuss words there are in French."

SHANGHAI MEN IN FAST TRYOUT FOR COMING SERIES

Players In Preparation For Forthcoming Matches For Championship

BY VIOLA VERCLAIRE

The series between the Regulars and the Bolsheviks being finished, and the cigarettes and the safety razors having been won, the boys settled down to a good hot workout yesterday, spending two hours on the local diamond at infield, outfield, hitting and signal practice.

It begins to look as if the U.S.S. Albany have succeeded in taking Merrill and Pruitt to play for their team in the coming series, thus making it necessary to develop a new infielder and an outfielder.

TWO NEW MEMBERS

Merrill had been groomed for the second base position, left vacant by the loss of Sammy Woods, and Pruitt was sure to be in the outfield as he has a fine arm and is considered to be a good hitter, but they are both Navy men and will probably be seen in the 'Gobs' lineup.

'Skipper' Bills had Glauque working out at third base last night and the big fellow certainly looks good on that torrid corner. He has a wonderful arm and for a big man, has lots of action, and it is a safe bet that he will lose the ball for some opposing pitcher, if he gets it over.

PRACTISE TODAY

There will be another practice tonight at 4:30 p.m. and those pitchers who were not out last night, had better show up and get in on this signal practice, as this will be the last practice before Saturday's game. Remember boys, this is for the championship of China, and it is worth while to know what you are going to do with the ball when you get it.

Youngster Defends British Golf Crown

A young Oxford golfer, C. J. H. Tolley, saved the amateur golf championship against Gardner, the American.

"Englishmen will all feel glad," says that Westminster Gazette, "that the championship is not across the Atlantic, and that in Mr. Tolley there arises a player with youth who should have many years of golf before him. We want new blood in a game that is spreading through the world like a fire.

"We shall not always be able to retain our championships, but when we lose them we hope it may be after such finely-contested games as that we witnessed and with so fine a spirit of sportsmanship prevailing."

Yankee Gunners Victors At Antwerp Trap Match

Antwerp, July 23.—The American team won the final of the Olympic team trap-shooting competition here today. The Americans broke 547 out of a possible 600 clay targets. The other scores were Belgium 503, Sweden 500, Great Britain 488 and Canada 474.

The individual American scores out of a possible 100 were:

Frank M. Troch, Vancouver, Wash	94
Mark Airie, Champaign, Ill	94
Horace Bonser, Cincinnati	93
Forest W. McNier, Houston, Tex	93
Frank S. Wright, Buffalo	89
Jay Clark, Jr., Worcester, Mass	84
Total	547

Troch shot the last thirty targets with a severely cut trigger finger.

The individual scores of the Canadians follow: Beattie, 87; Hamilton, 81; Vance, 82; Oliver, 76; Montgomery, 78, and Maclaren, 70.

The individual championships began this afternoon.

The winning by the Belgian team of second place in the team match came somewhat as a surprise, as one of the team is blind in one eye. M. Cuerzon of the Belgians broke nine out of ten targets in the final round.

The individual championship shoot began this afternoon. Out of the first 35 targets shot at in the first round Troch and Airie of the American team broke 34 and led the field, which consisted of forty-three competitors. All five of the Americans entered in this event finished among the first half and therefore survived the elimination round and will compete in finals. Wright of Buffalo broke 33 targets. Fred Plum of Atlantic City, who did not compete in the team match, 31, and Bonsen 30.

The Canadians did not do so well, only Montgomery, who broke 32 targets, and Vance 30, finishing in the first half. The other scores of Canadians were Beattie 29, Hutchinson-Black 28 and Hamilton 26.

Eight of the nine countries which had representatives survived the first round, these being Sweden, Norway, Belgium, the United States, England, Canada, Holland and France. Finland's three representatives were eliminated in the first round.

The final victory of the American team had been clearly indicated by preliminary trials in which they gained a lead quite easily. Frank Troch of Vancouver, Wash., was the strongest member of the winning team throughout the contest and in the first of the preliminary trials he made a perfect score with twenty targets. In the final event he injured his trigger finger but was still so accurate that he was tied for the lead on his team.

The showing of the Belgians was better than expected and the failure of the teams from Great Britain and Canada to finish higher on the list was a surprise as these teams had been selected from a wide range of good marksmen.

PAT MORAN MUST BE LUCKY

Reds Manager Escape Injury When Lightning Hits At His Feet

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 8.—Manager Pat Moran of the Cincinnati Nationals, Business Manager Frank Bancroft and Auditor Karl Finke narrowly escaped being struck by lightning at the ball park this afternoon. During a storm they were standing near Bancroft's desk when the bolt struck a flag staff on the roof, descended into the office and buried itself in the floor at the feet of the club officials. They escaped injury.

Paddock And Kirksey Lead Edward Across Tape In Contest

(Reuter's Service)

Antwerp, August 16.—In the Olympic Games today the final of the 100 meters race was won by C. W. Paddock (America), M. M. Kirksey (America) was second, and Edward (Great Britain) third. Time 10 4-5 seconds.

The final of the 400 meters hurdle race was won by Loomis (America) in 54 seconds, which is a record. The second and third were also Americans.

Dempsey's Wallop Is Better Than Medicine

Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey is not a surgeon, but at the same time his right-hand wallop, that of the knockout variety was the means of saving a serious operation not long ago.

Bill West, a Los Angeles moving picture actor, opposed Dempsey in a "battle for the title" during the filming of the picture, "Daredevil Jack." During the bout West's jaw came in contact with a terrific right.

When West came to a few minutes later he had a rather queer feeling in his head (naturally), but an examination revealed that the punch had landed with such force so as to completely cure a severe case of water in the head, which the actor had contracted while swimming at Santa Monica a year ago.

VETERAN FRENCH AIRMAN REACHES SHANGHAI FROM FOOCHOW; STARTED FLIGHT FROM MACAO ON SUNDAY

Mr. C. E. W. Ricou, Promoter Of Commercial Aviation In Orient, Makes Successful Trip, Arriving At Yangtszepoo Yesterday Morning

Mr. C. E. W. Ricou, the noted French aviator and managing director of the Macao Electric Lighting Co., Ltd. arrived from Foochow yesterday morning. Shortly after 7 o'clock the machine was seen coming from the Woosung direction. It landed near The Point, Yangtszepoo, where a number of French local officials and a line of launches were in waiting.

The French aviator took off in Macao Sunday morning at 7 o'clock and had an uneventful flight to Foochow, landing at the Pagoda shortly before noon. On account of the closing of the gasoline supply station Sunday Mr. Ricou was unable to resume his trip to Shanghai on the same day.

On Tuesday, he took his departure, reaching Woosung in the night when it was too late to secure transport ashore. The flier and his passengers remained in the machine during the night and resumed the flight to Shanghai yesterday at dawn.

After landing, M. Ricou was motored to the French Consul-General, M. Reau. The plane in which M. Ricou flew to Shanghai has accommodations for 16 passengers.

Since his return from war service, Mr. Ricou has been much interested in the development of commercial aviation in the Orient. He has made a survey of Japan and Singapore and conducted a series of flights for Hongkong residents at Repulse Bay.

The aviator owns about a dozen small machines, which are now stored in his Macao headquarters, ready for use in the proposed Macao-Canton-Hongkong aerial service. These machines are manned by American pilots and mechanics, who have been flying between Macao and Hongkong regularly, a distance of 40 miles. Mr. Ricou himself holds the record time for this flight, which is little over 15 minutes.

Chapman, Cleveland Shortstop, Is Dead

(American Consular Radio)

New York, August 18.—Raymond Chapman, shortstop of the Cleveland Americans, died here today following an operation that was resorted to in an effort to save his life after he had been struck in the head by a pitched baseball. The accident occurred in Tuesday's game.

Lee Magee Loses Suit Against Chicago Cubs

The jury in the trial of Lee Magee, Cincinnati baseball player, in his suit against the Chicago National League Baseball Club for $9,500, returned a verdict for the defendant in the United States District Court. The jury deliberated about an hour before it reached a decision. Robert Alcorn, attorney for Magee announced after the verdict had been rendered that the case would be appealed.

Magee, who formerly played with the Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Chicago Nationals and other major league clubs, charged that he was released by the Chicago Nationals without just cause last February, thereby beng deprived of earning a living as a professional baseball player.

Dempsey K. O.'s Two Within Three Rounds

Denver, Col., July 3.—In his first ring appearance since he won the championship of the world, Jack Dempsey last night knocked out two opponents in the same ring within three rounds of fighting.

His first victim was K. O. Brown, of Salt Lake, who took the count in the second round. Jack Smith, weighing 225 pounds, lasted less than two minutes of the first round in the second bout, both of which were staged as "exhibition bouts."

'When Love Flies—'

When Love Flies Out O' The Window. By Leonard Merrick. E. P. Dutton and Co. $2.50. (Gold).

The honor of writing the introduction to "When Love Flies Out o' The Window," the most recently published of the new collected edition of Leonard Merrick's works, has fallen to the share of W. Robertson Nicoll. And he declares quite unequivocally that it is one of its distinguished author's "finest stories." This of course means that "the book shows a singular mastery of the narrative style. . . . Mr. Merrick writes without effort or constraint; he wastes no words; he leads on to his conclusion without once turning aside. . . . All the threads are in his hand, and he never allows one to slip. . . . He has already given us enduring gems of extreme finish, unique and perfected. And none is more precious than 'When Love Flies Out o' the Window.'"

With every word of the above we most heartily agree. Indeed, the one point of the introduction which may perhaps justly be held to criticism is that in which its writer states that Mr. Merrick is really at home only in the worlds of the stage, of literature, and of journalism. Surely, no one who has read the enthralling story of "The Worldlings" can doubt that its author is at home in the world of the great English country home, and also in that of the South African diamond fields!

Apart from this one point, the introduction is both interesting and sympathetic. Yet there is much that it leaves unsaid, doubtless for want of space. The fact that Mr. Merrick is one of the least didactic of writers is noted, but nothing is said of the situation which plays so very important a part in the novel, a situation among the most discussed of the present day—that in which the wife becomes the successful wage-earner, and the husband more or less a failure, the woman giving not only those things which she has for generations been expected to give, but also the money resulting, not from an inheritance, but from her talents and her brains. This very modern situation Mr. Merrick treats in thoroughly characteristic fashion; to him it is no abstract problem, to be cold-bloodedly analysed and dissected, but an actual, individual state of affairs which has developed between two human beings through force of conditions, rather than from the volition of either.

Meenie has no theories of economic independence; she returns to the stage, not to gratify ambition, but because Ralph's failure makes her return a matter of necessity. And the happy outcome of it all is again an outcome resulting from the individualities of these two, as well as from the fact that, though "Love" had flown "out o' the window," he had gone but a very little way.

This story of Ralph Lingham, novelist and playwright, and of Meenie Weston, the "pale little girl, with fair hair and eyes the color of forget-me-nots," is one of compelling interest, as well as of abundant incident and variety. Meenie's experiences in the Paris cabaret where she had been tricked into accepting an engagement, and in that horrible boarding house where at night "she was often disturbed by the sound of voices she did not hear during the day," move swiftly forward to a veritably thrilling climax, a climax so tense and so dramatic that one must go far to find anything with which which to compare it.

And then, quick upon the heels of the drama which might so easily have turned into a tragedy, comes the delicious comedy of the developing love affair, comedy whimsical, dainty, fresh and charming, the kind of comedy which the author of "Conrad in Quest of His Youth" so well knows how to write. Who that has had the joy of reading it will ever forget the account of Meenie's introduction to "quenelles with a pink sauce," of the courtship in which all the inmates of the pension took so much interest, while Lingham found it very embarrassin to have eight pairs of eyes studying his symptoms," or of the idyl which was enacted in the rooms over the shop in the Rue Ponceist?

While dealing frankly with the facts of life, Mr. Merrick does not shamelessly rummage every hidden place of humanity," declares Robertson Nicoll, and here again we find ourselves perfectly in accord with him. Mr. Merrick has no love for delving into filth; but when the lives of his characters' lives chance to approach those places where filth lies he never evades, nor does he ever sentimentalise over it. The pock-marked blonde who sang in the "Cabaret de l'Homme," nameless from first to last, is a marvelously drawn picture of one of the saddest of types. She is presented clearly; neither her virtues nor her vices are ever slurred over; but, gross as she is, and truthfully as she is set before us, there is nothing gross in the manner of the presentation. Her portrait is a little masterpiece, and so, too, is that of Spencer Parlett, the dyspeptic, irascible and wholly likable dramatist. Each of these deserves a paragraph at least, if not a column, but space forbids: and, after all, the dominant personalities of the book are Ralph and Meenie, she who is one of the most lovable of Mr Merrick's many lovable heroines, a woman sweet and loving and generous and entirely feminine—but not in that sense of the word which would make it imply absence either of brains or of backbone. Meenie has intelligence and strength of will and of character, but she has her faults and her weaknesses, too, and we love her the more because of them.

Yet it is Ralph Lingham, the man who was big enough to give whole-heartedly and to any extent, but who was not quite big enough to take, whose portrait is the real triumph of the book, just because his is the most difficult individuality to present sympathetically. With a touch here and a touch there he is made to live before us, a man of flesh and blood, with the limitations and deficiencies inherent in his temperament, a fellow-mortal we never cease to care for and to sympathise with, even when we blame him most. Of the style of the book, the exquisite perfection of word and phrase, so simple, so inevitable and natural in their seeming, yet in truth such a wonder of artistry, it is not necessary to speak again to readers of The Book Review. An absorbingly interesting story, a story of tears and love and laughter, of suspense and drama and that rare fine charm we have long since learned to associate with the name of Leonard Merrick is this tale entitled "When Love Flies Out o' the Window."

Woman

Woman. By Magdeleine Marx. New York: Introduction by Henri Barbusse. Translated by Adele Szold Seltzer. New York: Thomas Seltzer. $1.90. (Gold).

Magdeleine Marx is said to be a relative, either grandniece or granddaughter, of Karl Marx and that fact alone would lend to this book, which is published in the United States with something of a flourish of trumpets, an extraneous interest. It comes also, according to the extracts of commendation on the paper jacket, with the highest laudation of eminent European critics and writers, among them Georg Brandes, Romain Rolland, Israel Zangwill, Bertrand Russell, while Henri Barbusse writes a two-page introduction that becomes almost maudlin in the enthusiasm of its praise. The American critic, therefore, approaches the book with interest whetted and curiosity keen to learn what manner of fiction, in this post-war period, can thus impress so deeply literary authorities whom we are accustomed to consider with respect.

While the book is written in the form of fiction it is evidently intended by the author to be an expression of her conception of the modern woman, of how that modern woman does, and should, envisage her relation to man and to her children. It is told in the first person and covers seven years of the life of a young woman, during which she is married, bears a child, has a lover, and then loses in the war both the men whom she loves. It is intensely subjective in its treatment, the young woman, who is not even given a name, constantly endeavoring to find and set forth the reasons for her actions and a very great deal of it gives the reader the impression of a mind outstretching itself, to the point of dislocating all its joints, in order to perceive and express something that nobody else has ever perceived or expressed. It abounds in such passages as these:

"I know, I know with a vengeance, that I am beautiful; I know it better than anything else about myself. . . . I have a new friend. A friend. When I see him it is like a revision of all I am, a kind of unusual sincerity that urges me on, amplifies me, and carries me toward him. . . . The shadows spread haphazard, piling up in ridges, drawing after them dim white trails. Unknown thoughts escape from everywhere. They are too swift for me. . . . The future tears itself to pieces at the bottom of my life. . . . And when he appears I feel that a word has been fashioned to express everything, but not a single word to express his face. It is too outside of everything, too mysterious, perhaps too like my own."

In his brilliant book on "Woman"—the same title that this this volume bears, but what a difference in their contents!—Vance Thompson expresses the conviction that the modern woman, judging by the direction she is taking, will eventually bring up at one of two goals, that in sexual matters she will either sink into the same slough of evil wherein man has spent so much of the centuries, or she will raise him to the ideals which he has always encouraged in her and by which she has guided her life, and he thinks that instinct and knowledge will lead her to the latter course. Miss Marx, in her envisaging of the modern woman, sees her calmly accepting, insisting upon and praising the other alternative. The book preaches—it is part of its purpose—against what M. Barbusse euphemistically calls "the exclusiveness of love," an expression which means that Miss Marx leads her heroine delightedly and successfully through an experiment in polyandry and leaves her at the end of the story, immediately after the death of both men, eagerly expectant of more "husbands" in the near future.

Miss Marx has merely sensualised and put into fictional form some of the tenets of her distinguished forebear. The economic independence of woman gets its restatement in the action of her heroine, who, when her father threatens to strike her, leaves home, finds work and supports herself. Possibly in Germany this might be a rebellious and sensational act on the part of a daughter of the well-to-do, but American women are too accustomed to earning their own money to think it of tremendous importance. The free love tenet of socialism, which some Socialists deny, here comes boldly forth. And another of its teachings is sanctioned also in what M. Barbusse describes as her crying out "with magnificent, impressive sincerity against the fallacy of the maternal instinct."

Without any doubt Miss Marx's book will be much read and discussed in certain "advanced" circles.

A Pawn In Pawn

A Pawn In Pawn. By Hilda M. Sharp. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons.

It would do no violence to this pleasing romance to call it a mystery story. First, the reader will be intrigued as to the heroine's parentage, and secondly as to the real authorship of the book of poems which were published in her name; in addition, in her choice of a husband we are treated to a genuine surprise.

Julian Tarrant had the reputation among a select few of being the "greatest poet that the century's latter end had produced." He was English, forty and a bachelor. Following an expensive illness he found himself in debt, and to keep the wolf temporarily at bay he spent three weeks in writing a play in prose, with a modern setting, which he called "The Last Laugh." It was a pot-boiler in the literal sense, and as such entirely contemptible in his eyes. The first manager to whom he submitted it accepted it at once upon the condition that the author's name should appear. It had been running for thirteen months when Julian's grandmother died suddenly, leaving him all the property she had possessed, which was considerable; "and it came to him, in money's own mocking way, at the one moment of his life when, at last and after long waiting, he neither wanted nor needed it."

One evening, about a month after Julian Tarrant went to live in his own house—Timmers Wood—Richard Drewe, a bachelor friend of forty who narrates this story in the first person, and young Miles Argent dined with him. The three fell to discussing Julian's financial situation, and, as he had no relative in the world, his friends suggested the adoption of a waif so that the property might "pass on."

"Look here, Dick," said Julian, "will you go to St. Monica's and get me one of those children?"

"No. I'm damned if I will! Why should I? Go yourself if you want one."

But Dick went, and to Julian's horror brought back a six-year-old girl called Jane. Her name was afterward lengthened to Jane Lydia Lisle. It is of the orphan's upbringing by Julian and his friends—mostly his friends—Drewe, whose lovable housekeeper took the child to her heart and became her fairy god-mother, and Lady Corchester, who, when Jane had developed into a beautiful young woman, presented her at Court, that is the warp and woof of this charming story. It would be a pleasure to dwell upon many of the incidents in Jane's life, some of which were whimsically amusing and some tragic, for instance the wreck of the vessel in mid-Pacific on which Julian had taken passage, his neglecting to make a will, and the charge of plagiarism brought against the young woman, but economy of space limits us to this curt resume. "A Pawn in Pawn" is an example of excellent writing, and in point of vital interest and ingenuity of plot quite out of the ordinary.

MALARIA

Its Meaning—Its Cause—and Its Cure

When Malaria (Mala-aria, bad air) was given its name scientists knew less about it than they do now, otherwise they would have christened it differently. Then the mosquito had a better character than he has today, when he is known as the carrier of the malarial germ, as being in fact chiefly, if not solely responsible for the existence of this disease.

So long as there are mosquitoes so long will they continue to spread the malarial poison. And once this poison gets into the blood it is only through the blood that it can be eliminated.

From every malaria-infested country proof has come that Dr. Williams' pink pills are the one means by which Malaria can be speedily and thoroughly expelled. Whilst cleaning the blood this world-famous remedy creates new red corpuscles to take the place of those which the germs have destroyed, and thus restores health.

Not malaria only, but most forms of disease consequent upon weak or impure blood, have been cured in almost countless instances by Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people. Anaemia, Debility, Nervous Exhaustion, Indigestion, Rheumatism, and the ailments peculiar to ladies are among the maladies they are curing every day. Obtainable everywhere, or direct from the Dr. Wiliams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai, at $1.50 the bottle, $8.00 for six bottles, post free. Today is the best day to commence your own cure.

Bruce

Bruce. By Albert Payson Terhune. New York: E. P. Dutton and Co. $2.

In the ungainliness, the unpromising awkwardness of Bruce during the formative period of puppydom Mr. Albert Payson Terhune sees an analogy in the similarly unpromising boyhoods of Lincoln, Bismarck and Thackeray. Like these men in their varying ways Bruce atones magnificently for his early failure to win a prize at a small dog show by capturing on his maturity all the ribbons and almost dying a hero's death in France. Enlisted by the Government he serves at the front with an unremitting courage worthy of a myriad of war medals: he saves regimens by carrying messages and, more directly, by attacking Germans; he causes the discovery of the true identity of a German spy masquerading as a Red Cross nurse and, finally, is about to be buried in a hero's grave when he lifts his head, to the joy of the adoring doughboys and officers who are shedding tears over him, and is sent off to the surgeon's to be saved.

"Bruce" perhaps surpasses the same author's "Lad: A Dog" as a pleasant divertisement on canine character. If his hero shares with most heroes the fault of perfection it is compensated for by the reflection that after all it is more easily possible for dogs to attain to sainthood than for humans. But Bruce has satisfying intervals of reversion to were-wolf ancestry; glorious moments when, in Berserker rage, he flies to the throats of German spies and vivisecting doctors of the same race. There is a pathetic episode in connection with a boy who spends his birthday money for Lass, a lovely female collie, only to have his purchase scouted from the house by cruel and uncomprehending parents. Things come right for the boy as they come right for Bruce, who, it is presumed, spends his old age, like a General, under the dreadful weight of medals honorably earned.

$10,000,000 PAID TO INDIANS

Payment Made Direct If Competent To Handle It

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs says that "in furtherance of the plan adopted several years ago under the "Declaration of Policy," having in view the gradual emancipation of the Indian from Governmental control, the disbursement of individual Indian funds belonging to both adults and minors has been governed by more liberal principles. Competency for this purpose was determined on a less stringent basis, and if an adult Indian was reasonably competent he was given unrestricted control of his funds, which affords him experience in the management of his own affairs along practical business lines.

The funds of minors have been authorised for their own benefit, such as the development of their allotments, and medical treatment, the purchase of stock (marked with the minor's brand), special schooling, etc. The Commissioner reports that in some cases, upon being appointed legal guardian and furnishing sufficient bond, the minor's funds were turned over to the parent, who thereby became responsible to the County Court for its proper expenditure. During the last fiscal year over $10,000,000 individual Indian funds were either paid directly to the Indians or expended for their benefit, with encouraging results in most cases, says the Commissioner.

Direct cash annuity and per capita payments during the year have been confined to those required by law to be made in this manner, in all other banks to the credit of the participants, subject to expenditure under the individual Indian money regulations. The principal distribution during the year was that of $200,000 among the Indians of the Uintah and Ouray jurisdiction, in Utah, from funds appropriated by Congress out of the $300,000 "Ute judgment fund" on deposit in the United States Treasury to the credit of these Indians, a substantial proportion of which was used in getting water on the Indian allotments under the plans approved by the department in 1915, with the view of saving the water rights.

Oil of bergamot	10 drops

DO you believe in washing the skin with soap in warm weather?—RUTH.

By all means. How else would you cleanse the pores of their accumulation of dirt and grime? But let me make you wise to a most excellent beauty wrinkle. Whenever you need to use soap on your face, whether in Summer or Winter, you will find it helpful first to rub in a little cold cream. Leave the cream on until you start washing your face, then you can rub it off with the soapy face cloth. This will prevent or neutralize the harsh effect that soap sometimes has on delicate skins.

MY bust is very large. Please let me know what you advise about reducing it.—D.

In my opinion it would not be wise for you to attempt any drastic method of reducing the bust because there is too much danger of inducing dangerous and painful growths by manipulating or fooling with these delicate tissues. I have only your best interests at heart when I advise you to leave your bust severely alone. Wear a tight-fitting brassiere and bathe the breasts daily with very cold water to which ten or fifteen drops of benzoin or a tablespoonful of salt have been added.

YOU have frequently mentioned lanolin as a tissue-builder. How should it be used and is it better than cocoa-butter?—A. H.

Both are about equally good, I think. But cocoa-butter is an irritant to some skins and lanolin seldom is. For this reason I prefer to recommend lanolin for constant use. The best way to apply it is to cleanse the skin thoroughly at night with warm water and a mild soap. Then upon the parts you wish to build up spread a small quantity of the lanolin smoothly and evenly with the fingers, massaging it well into the skin until a tingling, healthful glow results.

HOW can I get rid of a number of small moles? They are perfectly flat and some of them look like freckles.—AURORA H.

Electrolysis is really the only safe method for the removal of moles and similar blemishes. Go to your family physician and ask him confidentially if he would advise their removal in your case by the use of the electric needle. In the hands of a reliable operator any scars that may be left will be very inconspicuous, if visible at all. For myself, I would be afraid to have them touched. Try to regard them as beauty spots. In fact, many people do look on them as such and are quite jealous of those who have them.

I HAVE very conspicuous "holes" in my nose from squeezing out powder and cold cream which get into the pores. Please advise me what to do.—ALLEGRA.

The innate laziness of the skin is chiefly responsible for the fact that the sebaceous secretions are shut in and the pores constricted. If you will keep the skin thoroughly clean this will go far to discourage such an unpleasant tendency. The use of any mild astringent lotion such as a pint of distilled water to which half a teaspoonful of alum has been added is good. Alcohol used alone is too drying in its effect. The lotion given below is one of my favorites for decreasing the size of large pores:

Rosewater	3 ounces
Elder flower water	1 ounce
Tincture of benzoin	¼ ounce
Tannic acid	5 grains

AT what age does the hair stop growing? I am only eighteen, but I'm afraid mine has stopped already. It is very oily.—R. S.

Your fears are needless. It is well known that not even for some time after death does the hair stop growing. Sometimes, it is true, there is no apparent increase, but this is usually traceable to a general breakdown of the entire system or to an unhealthy condition of the scalp as indicated by that excessive oiliness. It would be well for you to shampoo your hair once a week for a time and afterward apply this tonic, which is especially suitable for very oily hair:

Tincture of cantharides (alcoholic)	1 dram
Spirits of rosemary	1½ ounces
Glycerine	1½ ounces
Aromatic vinegar	1½ ounces
Rosewater	3 ounces

Tested Tomato Recipes

Tomato and Celery Relish.

FINELY chop 1 onion, 1 large green or red sweet pepper, 1 large bunch of celery and 1½ pints tomatoes. Add ⅔ cup mild vinegar, 1 clove, 2 allspice berries, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1 tablespoon salt, and bring gradually to boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer gently 1½ hours.

Tomato Jelly.

WASH tomatoes that are just ripe and cut in quarters. Cook over very slow fire until soft and then pour into a jelly bag to drain. Do not press bag if a clear jelly is desired. Measure the juice and for each quart of juice add grated zest and juice of 1 lemon. Bring to boil and boil 20 minutes, measure, and for each cup of juice add 1 cup of sugar and cook until mixture will jelly when tested in a saucer.

Tomato Catsup.

WASH 1 peck ripe tomatoes and cut them in small pieces. Add 1 small onion, finely chopped, or 1 clove of garlic, crushed or broken, and cook until soft. Pass through sieve and add a spice bag containing the following: 1 tablespoon allspice berries, 2 tablespoons stick cinnamon and 1½ tablespoons whole cloves. Add 1 quart mild vinegar, 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons salt and 1 finely chopped red pepper. Cook gently until thick—4 or 5 hours. Remove the spice bag and pour while hot into sterilized bottles. Seal with melted paraffin.

Tomato Jam

SCALD 6 or 7 tomatoes, remove skins and cut in quarters. Weigh the tomatoes and for each pound allow ¾ pound sugar. Add juice of 2 lemons and 2 oranges, ½ teaspoon cloves and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Cook until thick. When nearly done add 1 cup seeded raisins and ¼ pound finely shredded candied orange peel and 1-5 pound shredded candied ginger.

Uncooked Tomato Relish.

FINELY chop 1½ quarts ripe tomatoes from which skins have been removed, 1 stalk of celery, 1 sweet red pepper and 1 medium sized onion. Add ¼ cup salt, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon each of clove, cinnamon and nutmeg, and (if desired) 5 or 6 tablespoons mustard seed. Mix well with 1 pint of mild vinegar. Pack into a stone or earthenware crock and cover.

Green Tomato Pickle.

CHOP 4 quarts green tomatoes and sprinkle with ½ cup salt. Let stand 24 hours and drain. Add 3 teaspoons cinnamon, 3 teaspoons allspice, 3 teaspoons cloves, 2 teaspoons mustard and 2 teaspoons pepper to 2 quarts mild vinegar. If a more highly seasoned pickle is desired add ½ cup white mustard seed. Bring to boiling point, add tomatoes, 3 or 4 thinly sliced green peppers and 1 large or 2 small onions, finely chopped. Bring to boiling point again and boil 15 minutes. Pour into earthenware crock.

By Mary Lee Swann,
The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

Tomato Preserves.

WASH 2 pounds of yellow "pear" tomatoes and cover with boiling water so that skins may be easily removed. Then remove skins, add 4 cups sugar, cover and let stand overnight. Drain off juice and boil until thick, remove scum, add tomatoes, 3 ounces preserved ginger and 3 thinly sliced lemons. Cook until tomatoes are clear.

Chow-Chow.

CUT the following vegetables in very small pieces: 1 dozen green tomatoes, 1 dozen small green cucumbers, 2 cups small white onions, 1 or 2 bunches celery, 3 red peppers freed from seeds and veins, 2 quarts tender string beans and, if possible, 1 cauliflower. Sprinkle with salt to cover, let stand 24 hours and then drain. Add 1 tablespoon cloves, ¼ pound mustard seed, ½ ounce pepper, ½ ounce allspice berries and 2 ounces turmeric to 1 gallon mild vinegar. Add drained vegetables and cook until soft.

Chili Sauce.

SCALD 2 dozen ripe tomatoes and remove the skin and tough portions. Chop fine and add 7 finely chopped green peppers, freed from seed, and 2 or 3 finely chopped onions. Add 2 tablespoons salt, ½ cup light brown sugar, and a spice bag containing 2 tablespoons cloves and 2 tablespoons stick cinnamon. Mix well with 2 cups mild vinegar. Cook very slowly until thick, stirring frequently at first and constantly when sauce is almost done. Pour while boiling hot into sterilized jars and seal with melted paraffin.

Drowning Accidents

By Brice Belden, M. D.

THERE is nothing in the popular notion that a drowning person must rise to the surface three times before final submergence. He may never come to the surface after the first sinking or he may appear several times.

All children should learn to swim and should develop confidence in the water, since hysterical fear plays a very important part in most drownings.

Whether the victim is unable to swim at all or is a novice or is a good swimmer who has become fatigued and lost his nerve, panic usually figures in the tragedy.

The frightened person attempts to scream and inhales water after the attempted scream has emptied his lungs. This, of course, increases the hysteria.

One so situated should keep the mouth shut and keep his head above water if possible by treading water or paddling dog fashion. Another person should not be seized.

In addition to learning how to swim one should cultivate confidence upon the water by rowing and sailing boats.

Two minutes' submersion usually causes death. This is no reason, however, why efforts to resuscitate apparently drowned persons should be given up, for even after five minutes' submergence lives have been saved by persistent treatment.

If not so far gone as to be unable to swallow, a rescued person should be given hot coffee. If he is unable to swallow, it may be given by enema. Wrap the patient in blankets and use hot water bottles wrapped with towels, so as not to burn him.

Clear the mucus from the nose and mouth, loosen the clothing and lay the patient on his stomach, with the head lower than the body, so that the water can pass out of the windpipe, lungs and stomach by gravity. Then apply artificial respiration by Shafer's method, which is the best.

In applying this method not only does the water pass out by gravity, but the tongue falls forward and therefore does not have to be held. Place a folded coat or blanket under the chest and turn the face to one side. Place the arms above the head so as to favor expansion of the chest. This also keeps the arms out of the way while the operator is manipulating the chest.

Now kneel astride the patient and grasp the lower part of the chest with both hands, the fingers being parallel with the lower ribs. Squeeze firmly inward and upward while counting one, two, three slowly, then suddenly relax the pressure. All depends upon this sudden relaxation. Success is indicated by a gasp. Repeat until resuscitation is complete.

One way of bringing in a victim is to grasp him by the hair at arm's length, he being on his back, and tow him in.

Another method is for the rescuer to swim on his back, holding the victim's head above water by grasping the sides of his head, the victim also being on his back. Or a bold may be taken further down, in the victim's armpits.

Still another choice is to encircle the victim's chest with the left arm, he again being on his back and resting against the rescuer's left hip. This leaves the rescuer's right arm and legs free.

In the "tired swimmer's carry" the swimmer takes a floating posture and places his arms on the rescuer's shoulders, with the arms stiff. The rescuer, facing and swimming over him, pushes the victim in.

To break the clutch of a frightened person there are two effective methods, depending upon how one has been grasped. If the rescuer has been grasped around the neck from the front, place the right hand against the victim's chin and push backward until the grip is broken. If the rescuer has been seized around the neck from behind, grasp the victim's wrists, and after breaking the lock dive under the victim's encircled arms and swim free.

After a person has been resuscitated from drowning, or after an exhausting rescue, the victim should have a prolonged rest, for the asphyxia and struggling cause dilatation of the heart, and some time will be required for restoration of the cardiac balance. These remarks also have more or less application to the rescuer. If there is any pre-existing heart trouble or other disability such a precaution becomes the more imperative.

Whiskey or brandy is frequently advised in drowning cases, but it will be far wiser to depend upon external heat and such stimulants as coffee and aromatic spirits of ammonia. The physician may, of course, be obliged to employ stronger stimulants, perhaps by hypodermic injection. Alcohol is a depressing narcotic and also lowers the temperature in the vital centres.

WHAT WOMAN NEEDS

above all things are Health and Happiness. These are the true Woman's Rights! Every woman is entitled to them. Dame Nature intended her daughters to be healthy in body and happy in mind. Any woman conscious of pain and trouble which she feels might be removed will be well advised to make careful enquiry as to the cause. If it is found—as indeed is frequently the case—that a disordered digestion is giving rise to ill-health and the consequent depression of spirits, medicine of the right sort will doubtless soon set matters right. But it must be of the right sort. Beecham's Pills are to be strongly recommended for woman's needs. They may be taken with perfect confidence for derangements of the digestive organs, including such unpleasant ailments as sick-headache, biliousness, dizziness, constipation and the headache and worries often incidental to her sex. Every woman may get nearer to Health and Happiness by using

80 Tsing Hua Students Leaving Soon For America

Contingent Represents Largest Class Of Graduates In History Of College—List Is Given

About eighty graduates of Tsing Hua College will leave for the United States by the s.s. Nanking about August 23. This constitutes the largest class of graduates in the history of Tsing Hua College. Not only in numbers is the class of 1920 notable: its members represent talents which are above the average. Tsing Hua College can be justly proud of this batch of graduates, for there is every likelihood that they will uphold the traditions of their alma mater for scholarship, for public service and leadership.

With the arrival of this party in America, the number of students receiving support from Tsing Hua College will reach the total of nearly five hundred. Succeeding classes of graduates from Tsing Hua are likely to be exceptionally large. Some of the present classes have as many as ninety members. This will ensure a constant flow of good material for the colleges and universities of America as long as the indemnity funds will last.

Mr. J. Wong-Quincey, Dean of Tsing Hua College, will be in charge of this year's party. Mr. Wong-Quincey will spend about three months in the United States in a tour of investigation into educational, social and economic conditions in America. He will visit every center of importance and places which are not included in his itinerary will be reached through indirect means.

The distribution of this, the eleventh contingent of students from Tsing Hua College among American educational institutions will be as follows:

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand's exchange circular for week ending Wednesday, August 18, states:

Exchange:—After slight fluctuations the London price of Silver at 59⅝d. is ⅝d. higher than last week. The forward price is quoted 60d. which is also ⅝ higher. Our official quotation for T.T. on London has followed silver and stands at 5s. 11d. i.e. 1d. up.

The local exchange market has shown strength as a result of further sales of T.T. on London for forward delivery by our Native Gold Dealers, particularly in the last two days. Yesterday standing at 6/– they finally sold at 6/3d. Their operations have been largely covered by purchases by merchants against imports, so that as far as China is concerned silver has not been affected.

Exports still hang fire, though occasional lines appear on the Exchange Market. We close steady with an inclination for rates to come back to the official quotations.

Local stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 34,730,000 an increase of Tls. 1,530,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $22,640,000 an increase of $1,040,000.

Estimated total value in Taels 36,300,000.

Hongkong Market

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor write as follows in their report dated August 13:

There is another dull week to be recorded, but towards the close there is a slightly better feeling in evidence, and a little more business is being done.

London has improved slightly, evidently reflecting the feeling that the Polish trouble will be settled in the near future.

Shanghai, as a market, seems to have ceased to exist, and only a very few nominal quotations come through occasionally.

The chief alterations are:

Hongkong Banks:—After receding to $595 have strengthened to a buying rate of $660 following on the decline in the exchange rate.

Docks:—Are a quiet market at $152 with no business doing.

Unions:—Following on the weaker exchange have firmed up to a buying rate of $180 for cash, but there are no sellers in evidence at this figure.

China Sugars:—Firmed up to $239 for cash at which a fairly large business was put through. An interim dividend of $15 per share has just been declared but the market has not responded either way so far.

Wharves:—Are firmer with buyers at $85 and Cements at $7¼.

Exchange.—The demand selling rate on London is 4/1¼ and the T.T. selling rate on Shanghai is 71.

MUNICIPAL NOTIFICATION

No. 2715.

SHANGHAI MUNICIPAL COUNCIL 6 PER CENT. STERLING LOAN, 1920.

Amount £750,000

Price of Issue £100 per cent.

UNDER the authority of Resolution VII passed at the Annual Meeting of Ratepayers on April 7, 1920, the Council hereby invites applications for Bearer Debentures (with coupons attached) in the 6 percent. Sterling Loan of 1920, which is issued on the following terms:—

(1) Debentures to Bearer, with Sterling interest coupons attached, will be issued at £100 percent in denominations of £1,000 £500, £100 and £50.

(2) The Debentures of this issue will bear interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum, payable on June 30 and December 31 in each year by sterling demand draft on London at par, or in silver (local currency) at the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation's Shanghai current demand buying rate on London on date of presentation of the relative coupon. The first payment of interest will be made on December 31, 1920.

(3) Applications, accompanied by payment in full, will be received by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, No. 12 The Bund, on and after May 1, up to and including June 30, 1920, the Council reserving to itself the right of closing the subscription lists on any day previous to June 30, 1920, by Notification in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai.

(4) Payment on application will be accepted in Silver (local currency) at the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation's current selling T.T. rate on London and will bear interest from date of payment, or in Sterling by T.T. or Demand Draft on London. Interest on payments made in Sterling will only accrue from the date on which the relative remittances are received by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, London.

The cost of all telegrams incurred through payment by Sterling T.T. shall be paid by the applicant.

Payment will be acknowledged by Banker's Receipt pending issue of the Debentures.

In the event of any applicant not being allotted the full amount applied for, the amount over applied for will be repaid in full plus interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the date payment was received in Shanghai or London to the due date of repayment in Shanghai, as notified to the applicant by special notice from the Council.

(5) The Loan will be redeemed at par on June 30, 1950, but may be redeemed by the Council in whole or in part on June 30, 1930, and/or on any subsequent date or dates on which the half-yearly interest is payable, subject to the Council giving six calendar months' notice in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai. In the event of any partial redemption of the loan the numbers of the Debentures to be redeemed will be decided by drawing. The numbers of such drawn Debentures will be notified in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai not less than three months prior to the date of repayment.

Application forms can be obtained on and after May 1, from the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, No. 12 The Bund, or from the Treasurer and Comptroller, Finance Department, 24B Kiangse Road, to whom all enquiries should be addressed.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possess a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—
(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filing with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

WEATHER

The typhoon of Guam will move to north-north-west to approach the Bonin. The one off Eastern Luzon will start again towards northwest to advance towards the Loochoos and the Eastern Sea. The depression of south-west Japan will cause rough weather on the Yellow Sea. Northerly winds, changeable weather tomorrow.

The Russo-German Agreement

THE one hopeful ray in the very black European situation is that the Russian and Polish peace delegates have got together at Minsk. A quick peace may save everything and while the Poles will come out of it much worse off than they were when they launched their foolish war against Russia, it will be no worse than they have any right to expect for they were the aggressors and they have lost.

Despatches of the last few days have indicated that British pressure was being brought to bear on the Poles to force them to accept the best peace possible, and the Poles will be well advised if they yield to this pressure. They are completely at the mercy of the Bolshevists and the Allies are not in a position to help them.

Further, there is now little doubt that the Bolshevists and the Germans have reached a working agreement. The French Mission at Warsaw officially informs its own government that Germany is actively aiding the Russians, supplying arms, munitions and military information. The despatch says that Germany is doing this; not some Germans, but Germany! This goes a long way towards confirming the reports of an alliance between Germany and Russia, which have been carried by Reuter's in the last two weeks.

Little is to be gained from trying to foreshadow what the immediate effects of this alliance are likely to be but one thing would seem to be fairly certain. With Poland disposed of and this alliance in effect, France will find her position most precarious for she stands committed to recognition and support of the Wrangel Government and will be faced with the alternatives of furnishing active military aid to that government and so becoming involved in actual war with Russia, or backing out with whatever loss of prestige such action would entail. And with Poland out of the way, the Russians will have their whole army free to crush Wrangel, for we do not see how France can be of any appreciable assistance to him. Her armies are too far away.

And if, as the telegrams have indicated, the Bolshevist armies are permitted to be moved through Germany to attack France, this would mean that Germany too was joining in the war on France, which in turn would force Great Britain and America back into the war.

A quick peace at Minsk probably would prevent the crisis from culminating in the cataclysm we have outlined. In this case the Russian armies would be free to concentrate their attention on the invader in Siberia—Japan.

WE'VE COME TO STAY

Booking a passage on the P. and O. is as expensive as buying a piano and then mastering its mysteries. To get back to Europe via Suez needs the power and purse of a Rockefeller. Now they are making it just as difficult to cross the broad Pacific. The trans-Pacific lines have put their prices up twenty percent. Looks like we've come to Shanghai to stay.

PAGE THE EX-KAISER

This world was once a daisy, we all pronounced it good; but now alas its crazy, and wont run as it should, until we quit the jawing, and cease the frantic pawing, and all get busy sawing our proper share of wood. We still desire to meddle with all things everywhere, to chase around and peddle new brands of heated air; where once we did our toiling, to keep the kettle boiling, the stack of wood is spoiling; the bucksaw's rusting there. While angry nations battled, it was not strange or queer, if we were sadly rattled, disturbed by dread or fear; too long we've reared and ranted, and clawed the air and panted, ghost-danced and gallivanted, for war's no longer here. The sawbuck, firm and trusty, is waiting in the yard; the sword is red and rusty, the wood is straight and hard; let's ply the saw and speed her, and whack up elm and cedar, and thus, O gentle reader, our well-known bulwarks guard.

—Walt Mason.

Senator Harding Discards Lodge Reservations

Marion, Ohio, July 22.—Senator Warren G. Harding, in his speech here this afternoon, formally accepted the Republican nomination for President. He discarded the Lodge reservations to the Treaty of Versailles, and pledged his party to a peace by declaration, to be followed by the negotiation of a new treaty uniting the nations of the world by moral force only.

"The call of America's conscience is for peace," he said, and "heeding this call and knowing as I do the disposition of the Congress, I promise you formal and effective peace, so quickly as a Republican Congress can pass its declaration for a Republican Executive to sign." His speech in full follows:

Chairman Lodge, members of the Notification Committee, members of the National Committee, ladies and gentlemen:

The message which you have formally conveyed brings to me a realisation of responsibility which is not underestimated. It is a supreme task to interpret the covenant of a great political party, the activites of which are so woven into the history of this Republic, and a very sacred and solemn undertaking to utter the faith and aspirations of the many millions who adhere to that party. The party platform has charted the way, yet, somehow, we have come to expect that interpretation which voices the faith of nominees who must assume specific tasks.

FOR PARTY GOVERNMENT

Let me be understood clearly from the very beginning. I believe in party sponsorship in government. I believe in party government as distinguished from personal government, individual, dictatorial, autocratic or what not. In a citizenship of more than a hundred millions it is impossible to reach agreement upon all questions.

Parties are formed by those who reach a consensus of opinion. It was the intent of the founding fathers to give to this Republic a dependable and enduring popular Government, representative in form, and it was designed to make political parties not only the preserving sponsors, but also the effective agencies through which hopes and aspirations and convictions and conscience may be translated into public performance.

Popular government has been an inspiration of liberty since the dawn of civilisation. Republics have risen and fallen, and a transition from party to personal government has preceded every failure since the world began. Under the Constitution we have the charted way to security and perpetuity. We know it gave to us the safe path to a developing eminence which no people in the world ever rivaled. It has guaranteed the rule of intelligent, deliberate public opinion expressed through parties. Under this plan a masterful leadership becomingly may manifest its influence, but a people's will still remains the supreme authority.

The American achievement under the plan of the fathers is nowhere disputed. On the contrary, the American example has been the model of every republic which glorifies the progress of liberty, and is everywhere the leaven of representative democracy which has expanded human freedom. It has been wrought through party government.

No man is big enough to run this great Republic. There never has been one. Such domination was never intended. Tranquility, stability, dependability—all are assured in party sponsorship, and we mean to renew the assurances which were rended in the cataclysmal war.

It was not surprising that we went far afield from safe and prescribed paths amid the war anxieties. There was the unfortunate tendency before; there was the surrender of Congress to the growing assumption of the Executive before the World War imperiled all the practices we had learned to believe in; and in the war emergency every safeguard was swept away. In the name of democracy we established autocracy. We are not complaining at this extraordinary bestowal or assumption in war, it seemed temporarily necessary; our plarm is over the failure to restore the constitutional methods when the war emergency ended.

Our first committal is the restoration of representative popular government, under the Constitution, through the agency of the Republican Party. Our vision includes more than a Chief Executive, we believe in a Cabinet of highest capacity, equal to the responsibilities which our system contemplates, in whose councils the Vice President, second official of the republic, shall be asked to participate.

The same vision includes a cordial understanding and coordinated activities with a House of Congress, fresh from the people, voicing the convictions which members bring from direct contact with the electorate, and cordial co-operation along with the restored functions of the Senate, fit to be the greatest deliberative body of the world. Its members are the designated sentinels on the towers of constitutional government. The resumption of the Senate's authority saved to this Republic its independent nationality, when autocracy misinterpreted the dream of a world experiment to be the vision of a world ideal.

It is not difficult, Chairman Lodge, to make ourselves clear on the question of international relationship. We Republicans of the Senate, conscious of our solemn oaths and mindful of our constitutional obligations, when we saw the structure of a world super-government taking visionary form, joined in a becoming warning of our devotion to this Republic.

TO HOLD HERITAGE

If the torch of constitutionalism had not been dimmed, the delayed peace of the world and the tragedy of disappointment and Europe's misunderstanding of America easily might have been avoided. The Republicans of the Senate halted the barter of independent American eminence and influence, which it was proposed to exchange for an obscure and unequal place in the merged government of the world. Our party means to hold the heritage of American nationality unimpaired and unsurrendered.

The world will not misconstrue. We do not mean to hold aloof. We do not mean to shun a single responsibility of this Republic to world civilisation. There is no hate in the American heart. We have no envy, no suspicion, no aversion for any people in the world. We hold to our rights and mean to defend, aye we mean to sustain the rights of this nation and our citizens alike, everywhere under the shining sun. Yet there is the concord of amity and sympathy and fraternity in every resolution. There is a genuine aspiration in every American breast for a tranquil friendship with all the world.

More, we believe the unspeakable sorrows, the immeasurable sacrifices, the awakened convictions and the aspiring conscience of human kind must commit the nations of the earth to a new and better relationship. It need not be discussed now what motives plunged the world into war, it need not be inquired whether we asked the sons of this Republic to defend our national rights as I believe we did, or to purge the Old World of the accumulated ills of rivalry and greed the sacrifices will be in vain if we cannot acclaim a new order, with added security to civilisation and peace maintained.

One may readily sense the conscience of our America. I am sure I understand the purpose of the dominant group of the Senate. We were not seeking to defeat a world aspiration, we were resolved to safeguard America. We were resolved then, even as we are today, and will be tomorrow, to preserve this free and independent Republic. Let those now responsible, or seeking responsibility, propose the surrender whether with interpretations, apologies or reluctant reservations—from which our rights are to be omitted—we welcome the referendum to the American people on the preservation of America, and the Republican Party pledges its defense of the preserved inheritance of national freedom.

PROMISES PEACE

In the call of the conscience of America is peace, peace that closes the gaping wound of world war, and silences the impassioned voices of international envy and distrust. Heeding this call and knowing as I do the disposition of the Congress, I promise you formal and effective peace so quickly as a Republican Congress can pass its declaration for a Republican Executive to sign.

Then we may turn to our readjustment at home and proceed deliberately and reflectively to that hoped-for world relationship which shall satisfy both conscience and aspirations and still hold us free from menacing involvement.

I can hear in the call of conscience an insistent voice for the largely reduced armaments throughout the world, with attending reduction of burdens upon peace-loving humanity. We wish give of American influence and example; we must give of American leadership to that invaluable accomplishment.

I can speak unreservedly of the American aspiration and the Republican committal for an association of nations, co-operating in sublime accord, to attain and preserve peace through justice rather than force, determined to add to security through international law, so clarified that no misconstruction can be possible without affronting world honor.

This Republic can never be unmindful of its power, and must never forget the force of its example. Possessor of might that admits no fear, America must stand foremost for the right. If the mistaken voice of America, spoken in unheeding haste, led Europe, in the hour of deepest anxiety, into a military alliance which menaces peace and threatens all freedom, instead of adding to their security, then we must speak the truth for America and express our hope for the fraternised conscience of nations.

It will avail nothing to discuss in detail the league covenant, which was conceived for world super-government, negotiated in misunderstanding, and intolerantly urged and demanded by its administration sponsors, who resisted every effort to safeguard America, and who finally rejected when safeguards were inserted.

SUPREME BLUNDER

If the supreme blunder has left European relationship inextricably interwoven in the league compact, our sympathy for Europe only magnifies our own good fortune in resisting involvement. It is better to be the free and disinterested agent of international justice and advancing civilisation, with the covenant of conscience, than be shackled by a written compact which surrenders our freedom of action and gives to a military alliance the right to proclaim America's duty to the world. No surrender of rights to a world council or its military alliance, no assumed mandatary however appealing, ever shall summon the sons of this Republic to war. Their supreme sacrifice shall only be asked for America and its call of honor. There is a sanctity in that right we will not delegate.

When the compact was being written, I do not know whether Europe asked or ambition insistently bestowed. It was so good to rejoice in the world's confidence in our unselfishness that I can believe our evident disinterestedness inspired Europe's wish for our association, quite as much as the selfish thought of enlisting American power and resources. Ours is an outstanding, influential example to the world, whether we cloak it in spoken modesty or magnify it in exaltation. We want to help; we mean to help; but we hold to our own interpretation of the American conscience as the very soul of our nationality.

Disposed as we are, the way is very simple. Let the failure attending assumption, obstinacy, impracticability and delay be recognised and let us find the big, practical, unselfish way to do our part, neither covetous because of ambition nor hesitant through fear, but ready to serve ourselves, humanity and God.

With a Senate advising as the Constitution contemplates, I would hopefully approach the nations of Europe and of the earth, proposing that understanding which makes us a willing participant in the consecration of nations to a new relationship, to commit the moral forces of the world, America included, to peace and international justice, still leaving America free, independent and self-reliant, but offering friendship to all the world.

PROGRAM IS AMERICAN

If men call for more specific details I remind them that moral committals are broad and all inclusive, and we are contemplating peoples in the concord of humanity's advancement. From our own viewpoint the program is specifically American, and we mean to be Americans first to all the world.

Appraising preserved nationality as the first essential to the continued progress of the Republic, there is linked with it the supreme necessity of the restoration—let us say the re-revealment—of the Constitution, and our reconstruction as an industrial nation. Here is the transcending weal at home and will decide our task. It concerns our common weal at home and will decide our future eminence in the world. More than these, this Republic, under constitutional liberties, has given to mankind the most fortunate conditions for human activity and attainment the world has ever noted and we are today the world's reserve force in the great contest for liberty through security and maintained equality of opportunity and its righteous rewards.

It is folly to close our eyes to outstanding facts. Humanity is restive, much of the world is in revolution, the agents of discord and destruction have wrought their tragedy in pathetic Russia, have lighted their torches among other peoples, and hope to see America as a part of the great Red conflagration. Ours is the temple of liberty under the law and it is ours to call the Sons of Opportunity to its defense. America must not only save herself, but ours must be the appealing voice to sober the world.

More than all else the present-day world needs understanding. There can be no peace save through composed difference, and the submission of the individual to the will and weal of the many. Any other plan means anarchy and its rule of force.

COMPETITION DESTROYED

It must be understood that toil alone makes for accomplishment and advancement, and righteous possession is the reward of toil and its incentive. There is no progress except in the stimulus of competition. When competition—natural, fair, impelling competition—is suppressed, whether by law, compact or conspiracy, we halt the march of progress, silence the voice of aspiration and paralyze the will for achievement. These are but common sense truths of human development.

The chief trouble today is that the world war wrought the destruction of healthful competition, left our storehouses empty, and there is a minimum production when our need is maximum. Maximums, not minimums, is the call of America. It isn't a new story, because war never fails to leave depleted storehouses and always impairs the efficiency of production. War also establishes its higher standards for wages and they abide.

I wish the higher wage to abide, on one explicit condition—that the wage-earner will give full return for the wage received. It is the best assurance we can have for a reduced cost of living. Mark you, I am ready to acclaim the highest standard of pay, but I would be blind to the responsibilities that mark this fateful hour if I did not caution the wage-earners of America that mounting wages and decreased production can lead only to industrial and economic ruin.

I want, somehow, to appeal to the sons and daughters of the Republic, to every producer, to join hand and brain in production, more production, honest production, patriotic production, because patriotic production is no less a defense of our best civilisation than that of armed force.

Profiteering is a crime of commission, underproduction is a crime of omission. We must work our most and best else the destructive reaction will come. We must stabilise and strive for normalcy, else the inevitable reaction will bring its train of sufferings, disappointments and reversals. We want to forestall such reaction, we want to hold all advanced ground, and fortify it with general good fortune.

(To be continued tomorrow)

Correspondence

A RICH SUBJECT FOR BOOKS.

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: I have read with great interest the correspondence recently published in your valuable paper on the subject of the Chinese wife and would congratulate "A Young Husband" on the admirable picture he has drawn of a Chinese wife in his letter published in your paper of the 6th inst.

"A. Y. H." has made appeal for active steps to be taken to teach the Chinese wife her duty. He however seems to limit his remarks to Shanghai wives. I would suggest that something be done to enlighten Chinese wives all over China.

This seems to be only possible of achievement by writing special books on this very important subject. To make the books to the point, the work must be done by experienced husbands. Let them show the wife her weak points. Tell her how important it is for her to make the home clean, beautiful, and comfortable; why she should personally supervise the servants; what it would mean to her should she always bear in mind to make herself attractive to her husband. The book must be written in plain Chinese language, not in Wenli. Of course we would appreciate correspondence from foreign wives and their letters would be translated. Their advise would carry weight with the Chinese wife, who is all too pleased to copy their dresses and freedom.

I support the idea of writing books because I know books always have a wonderful influence upon Chinese wives while verbal advise from a husband will only tend to make the wife unpleased.

In saying the above, I, of course, have not forgotten that there are really some very good wives in China, obedient, industrious, right-thinking; and also there are a great many brutal husbands in China whose only business seems to frequent houses of ill fame, gambling, etc. Let the treatment of these husbands be dealt with in a separate book.

Will any one, therefore, announce that he is prepared to receive correspondence on this subject with a view to publishing a very useful book. Thanking you very much, dear editor, I am,

Yours truly,

Another Young Husband.

What Radio May Do For Us In The Future

Radio kinetics is the science of operating machines at a distance by wireless waves. In this country John Hays Hammond jr. is the greatest exponent. In France the science has been developed thoroughly by many workers. In the Radio Amateur News (New York) is an article by Capitaine Metz, in which he tells of the most recent discoveries, one of which is a method of ringing bells by wireless waves at a distance of more than fifteen miles. The great value of this is that it gives the wireless operator on one ship a method of calling the operator on another, so that the latter need not sit with the receivers on his head, but can want at his ease for the call.

H. Gernsback, editor of the Radio Amateur News, points out a few of the important things that can be accomplished by radio kinetics. Among these are:

"By means of radio kinetics light houses far out at sea can be operated at will. Buoys can be lighted and extinguished. Freight steamers can be steered across lakes or even the ocean without having a crew or even a single human being on board.

"This already has been accomplished in an experimental way. The boat in this instance is protected from collision by means of a fog horn which sounds every two minutes whether there is a fog or not. At night the lights are lighted automatically. The ship gives its position every fifteen minutes or every hour by radio automatically back to the control station on land. The ship is propelled by means of electricity, and the propellers can be started and stopped and the ship steered at will from the distant land station.

"The same thing is true and will be realised on land where freight trains can be sent without a crew for long distances over land. In this case, too, the train is propelled by electricity in the usual way. All other functions are fully automatic.

"These things may seem like wild and extraordinary dreams today, but they are not wilder than wireless itself was thirty years ago, which could not even then be imagined."

DO THINGS PROPERLY

Someday or other you'll want a Fox Skin. So why not do things properly, why not prepare for that day. Why not buy a Fox Skin that is different from the ordinary China Fox Skin. Let an expert who knows all about Fox Skins select one for you, a real beauty with nice long fur, and oh, what a bushy tail! Send a Chinese Post Office money order for $25 to Mr. Elly Widler, Ta Tsing Lu, Szechwan Province, and he will at once mail you one of these specially selected Tibetan Fox Skins.

Bamboo For Paper Making

According to Sir Harry Johnston, the famous African explorer, the inexhaustible supply of grasses, reeds and rushes of tropical Africa can be utilised in making paper. William Raitt, the cellulose expert of the British government, points out many serious difficulties in making paper from these grasses, but says that these are not found in bamboo, which renews itself annually.

Second prize: $20.00 Fourth prize: $10.00
Third prize: 15.00 Fifth prize: 5.00

These cigarettes contain nothing but pure tobacco, skillfully blended, giving one a delightful smoke with no ill after-effect, which is something not every cigarette now on the market can boast of.
The G. I. C. Cigarettes are known as :
VICTORY natural aroma CIGARETTES
and they are offered to the Public at $1.00 for a handsome tin containing 100 soul-satisfying smokes, and at 10 cts. for an attractive package containing 10 flavor-full cigarettes.
Now, send us your suggestion of the best advertising catch-phrase for these popular-priced "Worth-more-than-they-cost" Cigarettes, and one of these prizes may be yours. Please remember that each letter must be accompanied by an empty package of Victory Cigarettes, and that your suggestion should reach our office not later than September 15th, 1920

Here Is A Bear With Real Intelligence

How inteligent a bear may be is well illustrated by an account published by M. Baudouin in the Bulletin of the French Societe Nationale d'Acclimatation of a brown specimen that lives in the Jardin de Plantes, Paris.

This bear had noticed that whenever there was a heavy fall of rain the lower part of his den was flooded and the orifice by which the water flowed out was obstructed. Whenever this happened he profited by the occasion to take a good bath. This finished, he used to go to the outlet and scrape away the debris that had stopped it up, until the water flowed out and his home was dry. But once, in an exceptionally heavy flood, the water rose through the hole from outside. The bear tried his usual method of getting rid of the water, but, finding this useless, sat down to think over the new situation.

Presently an idea came to him. A lot of rocks had been throw into his den in an effort to raise the level of the floor and give him dry quarters. He studied these rocks attentively, and then began carrying them one by one to the place where the water was entering. He tried with these stones to build a dam against the increasing water. After the water receded it was discovered that the bear had placed twenty rocks, weighing from twenty to forty pounds each.

INTELLIGENCE OF FISH

Stories That Tend To Show That They Are Able To Think

Sportsmen, and even the hardened fisherman, bear witness that fish do possess some intelligence. Allusion may be made to their marked increase of wariness in waters that have been fished for quite a while. This is borne out by the fact that young trout under the circumstances are less wary than the old ones. Many fish will abandon old haunts when continually disturbed. The carp, according to Kirby's book on fishes, thrusts itself into the mud in order that the net may pass over it, and if the bottom be stony makes great leaps to clear it.

At the Andaman Islands fish are captured by the convicts by means of weirs fixed across the openings of creeks. After the weirs have been installed a week or so it is observed that captures invariably cease, and it is believed that this is due to barnacles, etc., clustering on the wood, but it does not seem improbable that the fish have learned to avoid a locality where those which enter do not again return.

It has been said that fish which have been kept for many years in a basin of the Tuileries come when called by name, but it is probably the sound of the voice and not the articulate words to which they respond, for in many parts of Germany trout and carp are summoned to their food by the sound of a bell, and this method is being used in many parts of the country by fishermen to catch their prey.

A small perch's nest of young was disturbed one day, and upon the next day the fish and young were searched for in vain. Upon further search it was discovered up stream, the parent guarding her fry with jealous care in a cavity scooped out of sand. Another story is related of a skate which was observed in an aquarium at Manchester. A morsel of food was thrown into the tank, which fell directly in an angle formed by the glass front and the bottom.

The skate, a large example, made several vain attempts to seize the food, owing to its mouth being on the underside of its head and the food being close to the glass. He lay quite still for quite a while as though thinking, then suddenly raised himself into a slanting posture, the head inclined upward, and the under surface of the body toward, the food, when he waved his broad fins, thus creating an upward current in the water, which lifted the food from its position and carried it straight to his mouth.

The blue shark and his pilot fish also come in for a story. Captain Richards, R. N., tells one about a blue shark following a bait which was thrown out to it from the ship. The shark, which was attended, by four pilot fish, repeatedly approached the bait, but every time he did so one of the latter rushed in and prevented him from obtaining it.

After a time the shark swam away, but when he had gone a considerable distance he turned back again, swam quickly after the vessel, and before the pilot fish could overtake him, seized the bait and was caught. While hoisting him on deck one of the pilots was seen to cling to his side until above water, when it dropped off. All the pilots then swam about for a time as if searching for their friend, "with every mark of apparent anxiety and distress."

Alloy Stronger Than Steel

An Italian engineer has discovered a new alloy of zinc and copper which is stronger than steel and less corrosive than copper, says the Scientific American. The most important characteristics of the new alloy, which has been named "Biak-metal," are the highest known breaking point, the highest limit of elasticity, perfect homogeneity and higher resistance to both heating and chemical action. It has been stated that it can successfully be cast, machined, rolled, forged, drawn and stamped. It is expected that it will prove an acceptable substitute for steel, brass and aluminum.

Furnishing Problems.

Consciously or unconsciously in the furnishing of your home, you strive for harmony and do not always obtain pleasing results in every room.

Many people fail in their color selection of the floors and the walls.

The most beautiful furniture will lose half its charm, against a background of ugly wall-paper or ill-chosen rugs.

Expense is not a factor in the cost of them, quietness in colour and unobtrusiveness in design are the prime requisites. Our experience in the solution of your furnishing problems will give you pleasure and economy.

PUBLIC LIBRARY CONUNDRUMS

Is Lending Books Or Providing Them For Study In The Building More Important?

THE HUNT FOR 'FUGITIVES'

Stray Poems Which Have Escaped Anthologists Often Present Problems

In a recent bulletin of the New York Public Library the point is raised as to whether lending books for reading at home or providing them for study and reference within the building is the more important duty of a public library. This question is of importance in connection with the many requests for information which are received by the library, requests of a nature and range known only to libraries and publication offices, and which in many cases it is impossible to satisfy. The writer says:

"There is no satisfactory way to count the number of questions asked, in any given time, of the New York Public Library. Whether the inquirer applies by letter, goes to the information desk, to any of the reading rooms of the reference department in the central building or to one of the numerous agencies of the circulation department, outside that building, his question falls into one of three classes:

"First, there are simple questions about the library and its books which are answered at once without reference to any book. Typical of these inquiries would be a question about the resources of the different parts of the library; a request for the title of a good book upon a subject which has a great body of literature, as Napoleon or the American Civil War. Second, there are questions to be answered not instantly, but in a moment or two, by consulting one of the obvious books of reference. Third, there are difficult problems which require research.

"To count all these would show an enormous total number of questions. The first class, by far the most numerous, are perfectly legitimate questions, though, perhaps, the slightest in importance. The other two classes, fewer in number, take much more work and time to answer.

"Probably the library succeeds in answering at least 90 percent of what may be called the important and legitimate question. Inquiries that lie within the field of rational science, of literature in its widest sense, of history, or of the known record of man's thought may fairly expect an answer. It is the 'freak' question in science, the dubious by-path of history, the stray quotation, which present difficulties. These, and the 'fugitive' poem—so-called perhaps because it is a fugitive from the justice which it might receive from a competent critic—often go their doubtful and anonymous way with their mystery, whatever it is, unsolved. Perhaps the sum of the world's knowledge is not seriously lessened.

"A person sometimes comes to a library," writes J. C. Dana, "because he 'wishes to verify his impression as to the color of James Russell Lowell's hair or the exact words Dickens once used to James T. Fields in speaking of a certain ought-to-be-forgotten poem of Browning's.' This lady or gentleman is entitled to the respectful attention which is sure to follow his or her question. But if, in the end, the sources of information fail to give any aid and the question remains unanswered, it may be that, as they sing in 'Ruddigore,' 'it really doesn't matter. For it often happens that when the story that nobody has indexed is discovered, when the authorship is traced of the quotation which no one claims, or when the full text is unearthed of the poem which the anthologists have failed to include, the quality of these things is a clear explanation why they have drifted about as strays and 'fugitives.'

"Yet, as they have not perished utterly, as they are still the object of search, it appears that they must have a certain appealing quality. It is not unfair to seek them in a library; it is not part of a librarian's duty to criticise them, and refuse help in their discovery because they are not of the first importance, considered by literary standards. In common sense, librarians must refuse some requests; they must not devote time which belongs to the public in extensive research for any one person, they must not prepare briefs nor essays, they must not try to solve puzzles for seekers after prizes. Outside these reservations is a large field of questions of different degrees of importance which they may attempt to answer.

"Here are a few unanswered questions, sent by letter to the New York Public Library in the early months of this year:

"'Will you kindly give the name of the publication, as well as the publisher's name, of a book of diagrams and charts showing wiring systems of all cars, including 1920 models?'

"'Can you give me any information—author, publisher, date—about a book on the San Domingo revolution? My customer thinks it was published thirty or forty years ago, and that the title may have been "Evenings in Boston."'

"'I should be greatly obliged if you would let me know in which volume of Jerome K. Jerome his "A Most Uncommon Patient" appears.'

"'Kindly advise me if you have the following work: Bibliographie de la Papeterie, by Charles Dumercy; Bruxelles: F. Larcier, 1888. If not, could you direct me to an American library where this bibliography could be found?'

"'About twenty-five years ago there appeared in some magazine or newspaper a poem entitled "Jonathan Day." It was about a poor little boy who had to wear his father's big boots to school and the other boys made fun of him. I want to get a copy of this poem, and write to know if you can tell me where I can get it.'

"'One of our newspapers has been asked for the author of the line: "Hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may." Can you, out of the wealth of your department, dig it up?'"
